FEDERAL JUDGE RULES

Right Of Airline On Replacing Of Strikers Upheld

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge ruled Friday that Eastern Air Lines has a right to hire flight engineers to replace striking employees.

Minutes later, a city magistrate issued a summons for the appearance of Malcolm A. McIntyre, president of the union on a charge of violating a new city law which prohibits the importation of strikebreakers.

The Flight Engineers International Association had asked the federal court to issue a temporary order restraining Eastern from hiring flight engineers and training copilots to replace striking engineers.

JUDGE CRITICAL

U.S. Dist. Judge Wilfred Feinberg denied the motion and criticized both parties in the strike which began last June 23.

Magistrate Aaron F. Goldstein's summons was issued at the request of two airline employees who have been engineers for many years.

Magistrate Goldstein said the order is returnable on Tuesday in Flushing Magistrate's Court where he said Friday. He said McIntyre will be asked at that time how he pleads on the charge.

A spokesman for Eastern Air Lines said the firm would have no comment on the court action pending receipt of the summons.

Goldstein said his summons was issued on the basis of an amendment to the city administrative code adopted last July 9 which prohibits employers from "willfully employing any strikebreaker to replace employees who are either on strike against or locked out by such employer."

The magistrate said the law also stipulates that it is illegal to "transport to the city any person to take the place of a striking employee."

Goldstein said the two engineers who filed affidavits that resulted in the summons were Clyde W. Stewart and Douglas R. Erwin, both of New Milford, Conn.

Both men, he said, claimed they had seen Sid Elder, whom they described as chief flight engineer for Eastern, board a plane at Idlewild and make a flight in the capacity of a flight engineer.

Absentee Voting Set To Begin

Absentee voting begins here Monday for the Democratic second primary election scheduled Sept. 1.

Carter Cozine, chief deputy clerk of court, said balloting will begin Monday at 8 a.m. and ends at 12 noon on Saturday, Aug. 25. Absentee voting will be done in the basement of the parish courthouse.

Ballots for absentee voting had not been received here Friday afternoon.

However, Cozine telephoned Secretary of State Wade Martin's office in Baton Rouge about 4 p.m. Friday and was advised that the ballots had been mailed earlier that day.

A short ballot faces voters in Ouachita Parish. On a parish-wide basis, the only race to be decided in the second primary is the runoff between John E. Mulhearn and W. E. Whetstone, both of Monroe, for the State Board of Education post from the fifth district.

The election has added significance in ward five where four candidates are in a runoff for two posts on the Parish School Board. They are A. P. Burkett, Roy C. Cash, Paul L. Crowell and M. L. Owens.

These four candidates survived a field of 19 in the first primary election held July 28.

A total of 278 absentee ballots were cast for the first primary election.

Judge Extends Ban On Strike

NEW YORK (UPI)—Federal Judge John F. Dooley Jr. Friday extended a restraining order forbidding some 10,000 members of the Transport Workers Union from striking at midnight twice on Friday against Pan American World Airways.

Dooley made the extension indefinite. He said it would be in effect until he can rule on the airline's petition for an injunction.

The restraining order that had earlier been issued has already been extended once. The first extension was scheduled to expire at midnight and would have allowed the union to walk out at that time in the dispute over a new contract.

Dooley scheduled additional hearings Monday. There was no indication when he expected to have a decision ready.

Solon Asks Food Stamp Plan Probe Charges Relief Program Is Used As 'Slush Fund'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., charged Friday that the Kennedy administration's food stamp plan is being used as a political "slush fund" for Democratic congressmen.

Asking for a House investigation, Hall told a news conference that the program is "another instance of hungry and destitute people on relief apparently being used as political pawns."

He said he had no objection to the program itself, which enables people on relief to trade government food stamps for surplus food. But he said he was strongly opposed to the way it was run and the way food stamp districts were selected.

CITES FINDING

"My investigation into the pilot program has disclosed that of the 26 congressional districts thus far selected for participation in the program, 25 are represented by Democratic congressmen," Hall said.

He said that "No congressional guidelines exist for administration of this program except that the selected areas must be economically depressed with persistent unemployment. Apparently an unwritten law is that they also must be represented by Democratic members of Congress, and if they are influential members so much the better."

According to Hall, the one district represented by a Republican congressman "is a mining area so depressed by foreign imports that it could not possibly have been left out with the least semblance of grace."

He identified this district as that of Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski in northern Wisconsin.

Hall said he was not concerned that his own district in Missouri was not included, and said he was happy that this was the case.

British Order Spy's Return

LONDON (AP) — Soviet spy Robert A. Soblen survived one more deadline Saturday for his removal to the United States to serve a life term. But he faced a new drama in a few hours in his battle to escape imprisonment.

The British Home Office then issued a new directive on the airline's flight instructing it to fly to London. The British Home Office then issued a new directive on the airline's flight instructing it to fly to London.

STATE COLLEGE FUNDS

Dodd Fires Back At Budget Group

BATON ROUGE (AP) — President William Dodd of the state Board of Education said Friday Louisiana must provide money for a first class system of colleges or go backward.

Dodd commented in a statement after the Legislative Budget Committee told all state budget units it would reject all deficit spending programs.

Sen. William Cleveland, chairman of the Budget Committee, told budget units in a letter the committee was without authority to approve any spending over the amount appropriated by the legislature.

Earlier in the week, the Education Board approved deficit spending programs for nine state colleges under its jurisdiction.

The budgets of the colleges were designed to pay for absolute necessities, while allowing less for needs to ride.

"I hate to belabor a dead horse," Dodd said, "but I can't help but note that while our state appears to be broke, and our schools and colleges are being forced to curtail operations, our government has found and is using more than a million dollars for a new mansion."

Dodd said the million dollars, if given to the colleges, could wipe out their deficits.

Dodd's statement continued: "I have a great deal of sympathy for the governor and his fiscal advisors in these times of short money."

Solons Seek 'Equal Time' For Replies

Want To Answer Davis Address On State Issues

Sixteen Louisiana legislators are asking for "equal time" on a state-wide television-radio broadcast to answer Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' recent report to the people. Sen. B. H. Rogers disclosed Friday.

Rogers told the Morning World that if the group's request is granted, Rep. Joe Cooper of De Soto Parish would answer Davis' word that Brooke had instructed his department to serve the new directive on the airline.

Rogers said the lawmakers hoped to have Cooper on the air Aug. 21.

The Grand Cane senator charged that Davis confused the issues "when the governor addressed the people July 31st regarding the past session of the Legislature."

Davis answered his legislative critics then, saying that criticism was voiced by "three or four" legislators.

THREE SECTIONS

But the lawmakers who requested "equal time" represent three sections of the state — north, central and south Louisiana. The Fifth District, however, was not represented.

Besides Rogers, the lawmakers include five other senators — Jackson B. Davis, Shreveport; Garland Bonin, Lafayette; Sam Broussard, New Iberia; A. C. Clemmons Jr., Jennings; and Cecil Blair, Alexandria.

Ten House members joined the effort — Cooper; Algie Brown, Frank Fulco and Jasper Smith, all of Shreveport; Jesse Knowles, Lake Charles; Jack Dyer, Baton Rouge; Parry Branton, Shongaloo; Richard Bertrand, Lafayette; Louis Michel Jr., Lafayette; and Jules Mollere, Metairie.

At least four of the lawmakers were outspoken critics of the Davis administration during the session — Rogers, Sen. Davis, Bertrand and Dyer.

Rogers sponsored the Code of Ethics bill, which was defeated, while Sen. Davis called for an investigation of the Gov. Davis administration.

Bertrand and Dyer were vocally opposed to the administration's forces controlled with a tight rein.

'LOT UNSAID'

"Gov. Davis left some wide gaps in his speech," Rogers said. "We intend to fill these gaps with the truth. A case in point is the Baker bank."

The governor said that no employee of his administration, under his control, is an officer in that bank.

But Rogers said, "This leaves a whole lot unsaid and we intend to tell just who the owners of the Baker bank are and then let the people decide whether they are close to the governor or not."

Rogers charged, however, that the "most flagrant instance of misleading statements" made by Davis regarded the Code of Ethics bill.

SENATE FILIBUSTER

Cloture Petition Warning Issued

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fresh filibuster took shape in the Senate on Friday against a bill to establish private ownership of U.S. space communications. But calendar-conscious leaders warned they're ready to invoke cloture to choke off the long-talkers.

At the close of Friday's nothing-accomplished session, Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., served notice that he and Republicans are ready to file a cloture petition, perhaps as early as Saturday morning.

If such a petition—requiring 16 signatures—is filed at that time, it would be voted on one hour after the Senate meets Tuesday morning. To apply the rule, unused since 1927, would require a two-thirds majority of those voting.

While the administration backed, House-passed space communications bill obviously is favored by a top-heavy majority of the hundred senators, it is not certain the chamber would ignore its cherished tradition of unlimited debate to speed passage of the measure.

UNCERTAIN The uncertain quantity is the attitude of Southern Democrats. Nearly all of them favor the pending bill. But they frequently use the filibuster technique to fight civil rights legislation and consistently have opposed cloture motions.

If the liberal senators backing government ownership of the U.S. portion of the space communications system should make common cause with the Southerners to oppose cloture it's doubtful the leaders could rally the required two-thirds.

Should a cloture move fail, the leadership would have the choice of going all out on the wear-down technique of prolonged sessions, which Mansfield does not like—or of laying aside the communications bill.

The Senate easily bent back three motions Friday to shut aside the space network bill but the opponents then wheeled up their oratorical guns and started hanging away—in a chamber virtually deserted most of the time.

It was not immediately clear whether the group of liberal Democrats is determined on an all-out, long-talk effort. But Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, told newsmen the opponents have discussed strategy, including allocation of speaking schedules for about 11 senators.

Blind Group Takes 'Sight-Seeing' Trip

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — "The Indians are everywhere out there," said a 14-year-old boy Friday as he peered through a slot of an old French fort. A newsman saw only a row of homes along a railroad track. "I'm looking forward to seeing Niagara Falls," Kathy Herrold, 15, said.

Both the boy and the girl are blind. So are their 22 teen-aged companions on a 67-day "sight-seeing" trip across the United States. They are from the Foundation for the Junior Blind of Los Angeles, Calif.

The group visited the fort on Onondaga Lake before heading for Niagara Falls. "You can tell a fort," Nancy Lackey, 15, explained. "It smells historic, and the doors are always solid."

Rival Army Chiefs Split In 2 Camps

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Rival army generals mobilized their forces Friday night on opposite sides of Buenos Aires in a growing military feud that threatened to destroy President Jose Maria Guido's shaky government.

Guido in a nationwide radio-television address appealed to Argentines to prevent "this dramatic hour" from becoming a tragic one.

LEADERS SPLIT

The president declared the secretures of the three armed forces fully supported a decision that split military commanders into two camps.

This was the appointment Friday of Lt. Gen. Eduardo Sarmiento as new war secretary. Sarmiento was brought out of retirement in an effort to resolve the dispute for the nation's top military post. The dissidents demanded that the post go to Lt. Gen. Arturo Osorio Arana.

Troops loyal to Guido and a mobile infantry unit backing the rebels' chief, Maj. Gen. Federico Toranzo Montero, were drawn up on opposite sides of the capital.

Guido, who became president five months ago with the armed forces' backing, said, "Only extremists crouching in the dark can benefit from discord and disunity."

Guido's address followed a charge by a rebel spokesman that the president alone "will be responsible if the country is to face bloody, painful events."

Technical Advances Are Cited

The technical advancements in American agriculture during the past 10 years overshadow those of any other decade, delegates to the annual summer convention of the Louisiana Association of County Agricultural Agents were told here Friday.

Expressing this view was John A. Cox, director of Louisiana State University Cooperative Extension Service, Baton Rouge.

He discussed with some 150 delegates to the convention at the Virginia Hotel, plans for adding area specialists to the Extension staff to provide special assistance to farmers and county agents where more technical matters must be dealt with.

He reminded agents that "change has to follow progress," and Extension Service's goal is that of "helping people help themselves."

Another featured speaker, Dr. M. D. Woodin, executive vice president of Louisiana State University, and a native of Catahoula Parish, told the group that "The image of agriculture is important because agriculture is a minority group."

He said that many members of the younger generation do not have an understanding of agriculture as do those of previous generations who came from farms.

"The more sympathetic and informed on agriculture the non-agricultural public is, the better off agriculture will be," said Woodin.

He explained that many of the important decisions concerning (Continued On Page Three-A)

The plane was expected in London at 7 a.m. Eastern Standard Time.

This is the first time the home secretary, Henry Brooke, has specified the flight to be used by the airline to take Soblen back to the United States.

Earlier, the Home Office had set three deadlines for the airline to take Soblen out of Britain. The last of the three expired at midnight Friday.

At that time Soblen was still in Brixton Prison, the Home Office said. A spokesman added he would remain in jail until the home secretary had considered what further action to take. Then early Saturday morning came word that Brooke had instructed his department to serve the new directive on the airline.

El Al appeared to face the possibility of some disciplinary action and clearly the question of the airline's landing rights in this country could be involved. An official spokesman said the home secretary would be considering what steps are open to him.

While the administration backed, House-passed space communications bill obviously is favored by a top-heavy majority of the hundred senators, it is not certain the chamber would ignore its cherished tradition of unlimited debate to speed passage of the measure.

Dutch Charge New Landings

HOLLANDIA, Dutch New Guinea (UPI)—Dutch military authorities charged Friday that Indonesian landed more troops in New Guinea this week after it had reached preliminary agreement with the Dutch on this disputed territory.

An official communiqué said an estimated 100 or more Indonesian marines went ashore on the Dutch New Guinea coast Tuesday night and Thursday night. It said "serious fighting" had occurred at one of the landing areas.

In The Hague, the Dutch government announced it had ordered its United Nations representative to inform the U.N. secretary general and the Security Council of the reported new Indonesian landings.

The Senate Friday beat back three motions to shut aside the space network bill but the opponents then wheeled up their oratorical guns and started banging away—in a chamber virtually deserted most of the time.

It was not immediately clear whether the group of liberal Democrats is determined on an all-out, long-talk effort. But Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, told newsmen the opponents have discussed strategy, including allocation of speaking schedules for about 14 senators.

ON 67-DAY U.S. TOUR

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — "The Indians are everywhere out there," said a 14-year-old boy Friday as he peeked through a slot of an old French fort.

A newsman saw only a row of homes along a railroad track.

"I'm looking forward to seeing Niagara Falls," Kathy Herold, 15, said.

Both the boy and the girl are blind. So are their 22 teen-aged companions on a 67-day "sight-seeing" trip across the United States. They are from the Foundation for the Junior Blind of Los Angeles, Calif.

The group visited the fort on Onondaga Lake before heading for Niagara Falls.

"You can tell a fort," Nancy Lackey, 15, explained. "It smells historic, and the doors are always solid."

Rival Army Chiefs Split In 2 Camps

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Rival army generals mobilized their forces Friday night on opposite sides of Buenos Aires in a growing military feud that threatened to destroy President Jose Maria Guido's shaky government.

Guido in a nationwide radio-television address appealed to Argentines to prevent "this dramatic hour from becoming a tragic one."

LEADERS SPLIT

The president declared the secretaries of the three armed forces fully supported a decision that split military commanders into two camps.

This was the appointment Friday of Lt. Gen. Eduardo Sanjoran as new war secretary. Sanjoran was brought out of retirement in an effort to resolve the dispute for the nation's top military post.

The dissidents demanded that the post go to Lt. Gen. Arturo Ossorio Arana.

Troops loyal to Guido and a mobile infantry unit backing the rebels' chief, Maj. Gen. Federico Toranzo Montero, were drawn up on opposite sides of the capital.

Guido, who became president five months ago with the armed forces' backing, said, "Only extremists crouching in the dark can benefit from discord and disunity."

Guido's address followed a charge by a rebel spokesman that the president alone "will be responsible if the country is to face bloody, painful events."

Technical Advances Are Cited

The technical advancements in American agriculture during the past 10 years overshadow those of any other decade, delegates to the annual summer convention of the Louisiana Association of County Agricultural Agents were told here Friday.

Expressing this view was John A. Cox, director of Louisiana State University Cooperative Extension Service, Baton Rouge.

He discussed with some 150 delegates to the convention at the Virginia Hotel, plans for adding area specialists to the Extension staff to provide special assistance to farmers and county agents where more technical matters must be dealt with.

He reminded agents that "change has to follow progress," and Extension Service's goal is that of "helping people help themselves."

Another featured speaker, Dr. M. D. Woodin, executive vice president of Louisiana State University, and a native of Catahoula Parish, told the group that "The image of agriculture is important because agriculture is a minority group."

He said that many members of the younger generation do not have an understanding of agriculture as do those of previous generations who came from farms.

"The more sympathetic and informed on agriculture the non-agricultural public is, the better off agriculture will be," said Woodin.

He explained that many of the important decisions concerning (Continued On Page Three-A)

TAX CUT VERDICT DUE

JFK To Address Nation Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will tell the American people Monday night whether he thinks an immediate tax cut is needed.

The White House announced Friday the President will go on radio and television at 7 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time Monday to discuss the national economy.

His half-hour speech will be carried live by the ABC, CBS and NBC television networks in the Eastern and Central time zones, and replayed from tape at 7 p.m. local daylight time in the Mountain and Pacific time zones. All radio networks, including Mutual, will carry it live at 7 p.m. EDT.

The announcement was made after a White House conference between Kennedy and his top financial and economic advisers.

Beyond the bare statement that he will discuss the national economy, Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant press secretary, gave no inkling whatever of what the President has in mind.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader who is urging an immediate tax reduction to spur the economy, may have offered some clue to Kennedy's thinking when he told a reporter: "It might be logical for the President to say that he favors an immediate tax cut but recognizes the difficulties in getting it at this time."

"As an alternative, he might suggest that Congress give him standby authority to initiate public works projects if a recession threatens."

Humphrey, who sits in on regular White House legislative meetings, said he did not know if Kennedy has reached any final decision. He said he is personally convinced that the President favors a tax cut now but is well aware that many Congress members would resist such a request.

Kennedy has said on several occasions that he would study the July economic indicators, which are just becoming available, and then decide whether to ask Congress for immediate action on a tax cut.

There has been a rising crescendo of arguments both for and against emergency tax reduction ever since the stock market drop in May.

But out of the welter of debate the signs have been multiplying recently that the President would hold off any effort to seek congressional action at this time.

These signs were bolstered by release Friday of reports showing a two per cent advance in retail sales in July and a further rise in personal income.

Offsetting these favorable reports to some extent was an announced decline in the length of the factory work week last month. These were among the major indicators that Kennedy was waiting for before reaching a final decision.

The President spent more than an hour going over these and other reports with his top aides. Presumably he will weigh the problem further while cruising off the Maine coast this weekend.

Those taking part in the conference included Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg and Budget Director David E. Bell.

Members of the President's Council of Economic Advisers also were present, along with Theodore Sorensen, Kennedy's special counsel and speech-writing aide, and two economists who frequently consult with the President: Prof. Paul Samuelson and Robert Solow, both of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Kennedy and his advisers had before them the highlights of a mass of statistical data pumped through computers at high speed to give them an over-all picture of economic trends during July.

"We rushed some of them," Hodges said of the reports.

Several of his analyses were given out during the day, and others will be made public, in line next several days.

Reports given out Friday by the Labor and Commerce departments included:

RETAIL SALES—Preliminary figures showed a significant advance of 2 per cent in retail sales around the country to a total of $19,451,000,000. This compared with $19,096,000,000 in June and $19,432,000,000 in May. The April figure was $19.6 billion. July sales of durable goods, helped along by a brisk business in new automobiles, were up about 5 per cent from $6 billion in June to $6.3 billion. Dealers in soft goods rang up sales totaling $13.1 billion in July, an increase of $69 million over the previous month.

PERSONAL INCOME—Rose in July to a new record annual rate of $442 billion. The increase over the June rate was $1.3 billion, largely due to higher wage and salary payments. These rose $300 million over June to a July rate of $297.8 billion. Personal income figures, which cover all earnings and other receipts by individuals, have been rising steadily all year, but the size of the monthly advance has been considerably less than sensational.

FACTORY WORK WEEK—This major index dropped in July for the third straight month. The work week averaged 40.4 hours in July, or 18 minutes less than in June. The usual falloff from June to July is 12 minutes. Nevertheless the July work week was still the longest for any July since 1950.

Seymour Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor, said the work week figures when coupled with the employment and unemployment figures for July indicate the job picture is good but lacks the upward thrust needed to thin down the ranks of four million unemployed.

The July employment figures, announced more than a week ago, showed a record total for the month of 69,564,000. The unemployment rate dropped to 5.3 per cent of the labor force from 5.5 per cent in June.

Friday's figures showed factory workers averaged weekly earnings of $96.56 in July, down 71 cents from June, largely as a result of the decline in work hours. The average hourly earnings remained unchanged at $2.39.

Still to come are reports on industrial production and new orders received in July by manufacturers of durable goods. The industrial production index, measuring output of factories, mines and utilities, is expected to show a small increase.

Another major indicator due out next week will show the number of private housing starts in July. Government experts were not even trying to guess on this one.

Liquor Control Statute Changes Are Pointed Out

Reminders have been issued on changes in the liquor control law in connection with the prohibited age of minors permitted on licensed premises.

A. F. David, chairman of the Louisiana Board of Alcoholic Beverage Control, pointed out that the new law forbids persons under 18 years of age visiting or loitering on licensed premises.

The law formerly applied to persons under 17 years of age. David also said that persons under 18 years of age may not be employed if alcoholic beverages constitute the main business.

He added that if alcoholic beverages do not constitute the main business, then persons under 18 employed by such dealers must not be permitted to handle, serve or work with alcoholic beverages.

Parents Seek Transfers For White Students

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Parents sought Friday to transfer three white students from Baton Rouge Junior High School where a Negro integration leader asked to send his 14-year-old daughter.

Asst. Supt. Robert Aertker said one family was moving from the district and the request was routine.

But he said the two other requests resulted from the move by the Rev. Arthur J. J. to enroll his daughter, Patricia, at the school.

"The parents so indicated," Aertker said.

Jelks, president of the local chapter of the National Association of People, asked Thursday to transfer his daughter to Baton Rouge Junior High.

Aertker said he wanted to clarify that Jelks presented only a request for application blanks to fill out.

Se said the Negro leader had not formally requested a transfer.

"If a formal application is received in writing, it will be evaluated in view of existing board regulations. It is not an item on the school board agenda for next week," he said.

Jelks said other Negro parents planned to request transfers soon.

RED OBJECTIONS DEFIED

Berlin To Observe Wall Anniversary

BERLIN (AP)—West German President Heinrich Lübke arrived in Berlin on Friday defying Communist objections to his presence and expressing determination to make the first anniversary of the hated Berlin wall a date to remember.

It was on Aug. 13, 1961 that the Communists closed the border between East and West Berlin, ending the flow of refugees and splitting in two a city of 3.3 million people.

"This day can not be allowed to slip by with short speeches and minutes of silence," Lübke said after arrival on a U.S. Air Force plane.

The white-haired president said he wanted it made clear what suffering was being caused to the city and the whole country by the wall.

"I am among you and with you in carrying this heavy burden," he said at Tempelhof Airfield.

One newspaper published under Communist auspices called his plans for a week's stay in the divided city a chain of illegal acts. The Communists maintain that Berlin is not part of the West German Federal Republic, and that Lübke has no right to be in the city.

The United States, Britain and France maintain that their military forces rule Berlin by right of conquest. In practice, they allow most West German laws to be enforced. Western approval of Lübke's flight was indicated by the fact that a U.S. Air Force C-54 was put at his disposal.

But the Western Allies have made it clear they do not want a major demonstration of German anger over the wall. West Berlin police have received strict orders to prevent any trouble that the Communists could turn to advantage.

So far the planned commemorations are on the quiet side. The city authorities have proclaimed a three-minute silence, with all traffic halted, for noon on Monday. An unofficial appeal has gone out for all Berliners to spend an hour quietly at home between 8 p.m. and 9 p.m.

The appeal was signed by Gen. Lanketter, Bob Crosby, Red Skelton and others.

Funds For East Texas Oil Well Probe Increase

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The attorney general's funds for surveying slanted oil wells in the East Texas and Hawkins fields jumped to $263,275 Friday.

The East Texas fund rose to $222,875 with a $500 contribution from Sohio Petroleum Company in Oklahoma City and the Hawkins Fund went to $37,400 with a $10,000 donation from Humble Oil Co. The funds are composed of contributions, mostly from large oil companies.

Thursday, the Railroad Commission authorized an additional $105,000 state money for use in its slant hole drilling probe. The commission is doing inclination surveys and the attorney general is conducting directional surveys.

So far, 95 wells have been found deviated illegally in the East Texas, Hawkins and Webster fields.

DURING FIRST YEAR

Wall In Berlin Asset To Soviet

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet and the Soviet Union, but on an entire Communist system forced to imprison its subject in order to exist.

The wall has succeeded in checking the refugee flow, but after 45 years of "building socialism" in Russia and 17 years in East Germany, such forcible measures to convince the population of the system's benefits should not be necessary.

The real losers: —The East Berliners and East Germans left behind the 26-mile barrier of armed guards, steel, bricks and barbed wire that separates not only a city but two different worlds.

Before the wall, they could cross freely into West Berlin to visit, to work, or to seek refuge. They could buy from West Berlin's glittering free market shops, see Western movies and plays, read Western newspapers and books.

West Berlin was, as Khrushchev has called it, a "loophole," and it let light into the gray world of communism. That loophole now is closed.

In the year since the wall came into being the Russian leaders have slowly and painfully come to acknowledge its existence to their own people.

At the start, there was no wall as far as the Soviet press was concerned. There were only "measures to halt trading with humans organized by West Germany and West Berlin"—a reference to the refugees—and "measures to strengthen the security of the German Democratic Republic, to stop infiltration of spies and saboteurs."

Periodically now—not often—a simple reference to the wall itself slips in. But most Soviet citizens are now well aware of just what those "measures to strengthen security" are. And despite the upside down language of the newspapers they read, the official Pravda and Izvestia, many also know why.

Ever since early August, Soviet newspapers have been warning their readers that "hooligan" elements from West Germany and West Berlin are planning provocations in the city to coincide with the Aug. 13 anniversary.

The Soviet government already has issued an implied warning that Russian troops may step in if incidents along the wall get too big for the East Germans to handle themselves.

But it was believed here that the Soviets would not do so unless absolutely necessary.

From the Kremlin's viewpoint, the Berlin wall is designed to avoid trouble, not start it.

Jelks, president of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, asked Thursday to transfer his daughter to Baton Rouge Junior High.

Aertker said he wanted to clarify that Jelks presented only a request for application blanks to fill out.

Se said the Negro leader had not formally requested a transfer.

"If a formal application is received in writing, it will be evaluated in view of existing board regulations. It is not an item on the school board agenda for next week," he said.

Jelks said other Negro parents planned to request transfers soon.

RED OBJECTIONS DEFIED

Berlin To Observe Wall Anniversary

BERLIN (AP) — West German President Heinrich Lübke arrived in Berlin on Friday defying Communist objections to his presence and expressing determination to make the first anniversary of the hated Berlin wall a date to remember.

It was on Aug. 13, 1961 that the Communists closed the border between East and West Berlin, ending the flow of refugees and splitting in two a city of 3.3 million people.

"This day can not be allowed to slip by with short speeches and minutes of silence," Lübke said after arrival on a U.S. Air Force plane.

The white-haired president said he wanted it made clear what suffering was being caused to the city and the whole country by the wall.

"I am among you and with you in carrying this heavy burden," he said at Tempelhof Airfield.

One newspaper published under Communist authority called his plans for a week's stay in the divided city a chain of illegal acts. The Communists maintain that Berlin is not part of the West German Federal Republic, and that Lübke has no right to be in the city.

The United States, Britain and France maintain that their military forces rule Berlin by right of conquest. In practice, they allow most West German laws to be enforced. Western approval of Lübke's flight was indicated by the fact that a U.S. Air Force C-54 was put at his disposal.

But the Western Allies have made it clear they do not want a major demonstration of German anger over the wall. West Berlin police have received strict orders to prevent any trouble that the Communists could turn to advantage.

So far the planned commemorations are on the quiet side. The city authorities have proclaimed a three-minute silence, with all traffic halted, for noon on Monday. An unofficial appeal has gone out for all Berliners to spend an hour quietly at home between 8 and 9 p.m.

The appeal was signed by Gen.

Lucius D. Clay, formerly President Kennedy's special ambassador in Berlin, ex-President Theodore Heuss of West Germany and Bishop Otto Dibelius, head of the Evangelical Church in the Berlin area. Both Protestant and Roman Catholic church leaders have refused to allow church bells to be tolled.

DURING FIRST YEAR

Wall In Berlin Asset To Soviet

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union viewpoint is that the first year of the Berlin wall has proved more of an asset than a liability to the cause of communism.

There have been dangerously tense moments along the wall, when Soviet and American tanks faced each other, and it has been bitterly attacked throughout the free world, but to the Russians, it has had these benefits:

—Markedly reducing East-West tension over Berlin once the initial tank confrontations at 'Checkpoint Charlie' ended.

—A halt to the mammoth westward flow of refugees through the West Berlin escape hatch that was sapping the life blood of Moscow's foundering satellite, East Germany. Pre-wall escape totals were a quarter of a million a year. Since the wall, only a few thousand have managed to jump, swim, or tunnel across the city border.

—Creation of a calmer East-West negotiating atmosphere for an eventual Berlin settlement.

—Presumably, a lessening of East German Communist chief Walter Ulbricht's arguments for a more radical and dangerous Soviet policy on Berlin. Ulbricht always has run slightly ahead of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in his demands for East German controls over Berlin's access routes and the withdrawal of its Western garrisons.

The cost:

—An indelible blot on the reputation not only of East Germany and the Soviet Union, but on an entire Communist system forced to imprison its subject in order to exist.

The wall has succeeded in checking the refugee flow, but after 45 years of "building socialism" in Russia and 17 years in East Germany, such forcible measures to convince the population of the system's benefits should not be necessary.

The real losers:

agricultural matters "are made outside of agriculture."

The educator said that despite a decrease in the number of farms, agriculture is not a declining industry, "but it certainly has been through a big revolution in recent years."

Woodin explained that this revolution has been in "mechanization or automation. Agriculture is growing and adjusting and adapting itself to conditions."

A warning of an economic threat to U. S. Agriculture from abroad, was sounded at the convention by David M. Amacker, head of the political science department of Southwestern College, Memphis. Amacker is a native of East Carroll Parish, and former professor at Louisiana Tech, Ruston.

The Memphis professor said that the rapidly growing European Economic Community or Common Market poses a heavy economic threat to American Agricultural exports.

He estimated potential loss to this country in farm exports at "up to a billion dollars a year."

"And, much worse," he added, "we may later wake to see a Franco-German Europe of 350 million people, an industrial giant, armed with H-bombs, full of expansionist zeal of a Napoleon or a Hitler, independent of, or defiant of, North America and NATO. And ready to move in against Russia to redeem the lost provinces of Germany and the enslaved satellite states. But, Soviet armies may well strike first."

Amacker said there is a need for the United States and British Commonwealth powers to maintain a strong alliance economically and politically with NATO to thwart the Soviet Union from gaining an advantage over the free world.

The group was welcomed to Monroe by Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard and J. J. Joyce Jr., Ouachita Parish county agent.

Among other speakers on Friday's program were H. C. Sanders, director emeritus of The Louisiana Extension Service, and associate professor of agricultural education at Louisiana State University, and other agricultural leaders from around the state.

Activities Friday night included a hospitality hour at the Paragon Club, followed by a dinner and a semi-formal dance.

On schedule today are a breakfast, committee reports, discussions, conferring of awards, and election of officers. Adjournment is scheduled for 11 a.m.

Gill Announces Hike In State Oil Allowables

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—State Conservation Commissioner James H. Gill announced a two-per cent increase Friday in oil allowables for September and October.

This will mean a daily increase of an estimated 70,000 barrels daily, resulting in a raise in income of some $21,000 a day for producers and land and royalty owners.

The actual allowable will be announced Aug. 23. The July-August figure is 1,130,797 barrels.

Gill announced the increase after receiving nominations from crude oil purchasers. One company, Texas, Inc., asked for an increase, while the others asked either no change or curtailment.

Nominations totaled 1,040,525 barrels a day, an increase of 6,029 barrels over nomination for July and August. Purchases in June, the last month for which figures are available, averaged 1,081,152 barrels a day. Gill said four companies had exceeded nominations with actual purchases in the past two months.

Texaco led nominations for September and October with an estimate of 215,000 barrels needed a day. Humble Oil & Refining Co. estimated daily needs at 190,000 barrels, followed by Shell with 132,400 and Gulf Oil Corp. with 131,500.

Gill said Louisiana crude oil in storage was three million barrels below June figures, and five million barrels below last year.

Gill gave "these figures, coupled with the present economic picture," as the reason for raising the depth bracket allowable from 31 per cent of the March, 1953, potential to 33 per cent.

Private Rites Are Held For Mrs. Ida Cantor

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—Private funeral services were held Friday for Mrs. Ida Cantor but her famed husband stayed home at the insistence of his family.

Cantor, 70, collapsed on learning his wife died Wednesday of a heart attack. He was still under sedation Friday at the family's Beverly Hills home.

"He feels much better, but it has been a tough day," said a granddaughter, Judy. "He's under sedation again. Our principal concern now is for him."

Cantor has had several heart attacks since 1953, and was hospitalized last in 1960. He was "overwhelmed" by grief over the death of his wife of 48 years, a doctor reported.

Rival Army Chiefs Split In 2 Camps

said "we will fight" before accepting Senorans.

Mounted police were rushed into Plaza de Mayo, site of the government building.

U.S. Ambassador Robert McClintock called a meeting of all embassy department heads as he watched developments.

Senorans served as the first chief of staff after the overthrow of dictator Juan D. Peron in 1955 and was succeeded a short time later by Ossorio Arana.

Gen. Senorans was sworn in at a tense ceremony after a presidential spokesman warned of the danger of an armed showdown. Troops at Camp de Mayl, the nation's biggest army garrison 15 miles south of Buenos Aires, backed the president. Tanks warmed up at the big base. The garrison commander told newsmen the troops were told to get ready but that no order had been given to move toward the capital.

Gen. Toranzo Montero was at the Palermo headquarters of the 1st Army Mobile Division in the northwestern section of the capital.

Word came from the base: "We are ready to move out."

The rebels claimed support from naval units but Navy Secretary Rear Adm. Gaston Clement denounced this as "absolute falsehood."

He told newsmen: "The navy has taken steps to prevent possible disorder."

Gaston and air force chiefs attended the swearing in of Senorans. Reports circulated of division in the air force but most units were believed supporting Guido.

Toranzo Montero, who had served three years in prison under the Peron dictatorship, ignited the crisis by forcing the resignation of Gen. Juan Bautista Loza as war secretary.

The rebel general had implied his campaign was not directed at Guido but demanded the president name a war secretary "to represent a solid guarantee to the nation for his deep democratic spirit and the irreversible principles of the liberating revolution" that overthrew Peron.

One highly placed government member said the majority of the army brass apparently was behind Toranzo Montero. The faction includes the military officers who were most violently opposed to Peron.

The informant said behind their present drive is the conviction that the shaky and, as they claim, do-nothing Guido government, is no solution to Argentina's pressing political, economic and labor problems.

Their aim, he said, would appear to be a military but democratic dictatorship to be established for at least five years in order to reform the country before elections can be held.

The main opposition to this group, the informant said, was composed of legalists, or those favoring legal solutions.

The danger of the present struggle, he said, was that it could open the way for some minority group to seize power, leading even to a Communist-Castroite dictatorship.

Cuban Airlines Pilot Defects In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A Cuban airlines pilot defected Friday and upset Cuban Ambassador Carlos Lechuga's plans to fly to Havana.

The pilot, Antonio Sanson, 40, strode calmly out of the drug store at Mexico's International Airport and into the safety of Mexican asylum while Lechuga and other passengers waited to board the plane.

"I arrived at the conclusion that communism is destroying Cuba so I decided to leave," Sanson said.

When Lechuga was told of the defection he shrugged and returned to the embassy.

Texas Grand Jury Indicts Estes Again

DALLAS (AP)—A federal grand jury indicted Billie Sol Estes on Friday on charges he lied to the Commodity Credit Corp., about his debts.

The indictment was the sixth so far against the ruddy-faced, 37-year-old Estes, although two indictments were scrapped by new ones.

The Dallas Grand Jury indicated it is not through with the Estes case when it kept two of Estes brothers on schedule for testimony. They are Dr. John Estes Jr. of Abilene, Tex., and Bobby Frank Estes of Pecos.

Also indicted in a related case was Robert Earl Clements Sr., 67, a cofounder of the depression-era Townsend Plan for old-age pensions.

Clements was indicted on charges of interstate transportation of forged securities.

Clements once owned Superior Manufacturing Co., of Amarillo, Tex., which is listed in some of the mortgages with which Estes is charged in other cases with manipulating fraudulently.

Here is the lineup of indictments against Estes:

El Paso federal court: One indictment charging transportation of fraudulent mortgages—which was superseded by a second indictment brought because of new and better information. Three associates pleaded guilty and await sentencing. Estes pleaded innocent. Trial date is not set.

Pecos state court: One indictment of eight counts—superseded by another of four counts charging swindling, embezzlement, theft and theft by bailee involving mortgage manipulations. Trial is set at Tyler Sept. 24.

Amarillo state court: One indictment charging conspiracy to fix fertilizer prices and restraint of trade. No trial date set.

The Dallas indictment on three counts claims Estes filed three statements of liabilities with the Commodity Credit Corp., in 1961

IN BRITISH HOSPITAL

Ike Has Reunion With Churchill

LONDON (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sir Winston Churchill—two of the great surviving victors of World War II—had a reunion Friday in the peaceful quiet of a hospital room. They talked about when they might meet again.

The supreme commander of the Western Allies in World War II called on Britain's wartime prime minister at Middlesex Hospital. Coming out, he flashed Churchill's famed "V" sign with his fingers.

"It was a wonderful thing to see him," said Ike, who was visibly moved at talking to Churchill, recuperating from a broken hip.

"He looks the same old Winston to me."

Ike's eyes appeared to be clouded with tears.

"I, I, well, I just had the feeling again," he said, "that I was seeing a very great man."

He spoke slowly and put heavy emphasis on those words—very great man.

The former president—who is making a 12-day sentimental visit to Britain—talked to reporters in the sunny garden of the hospital. He stood almost beneath the windows of the room where Sir Winston has been a patient for six weeks.

Asked what they talked about, Eisenhower answered: "We talked about personal things, about when we had last seen one another, and about when we hoped to meet again."

Ike is 71, 16 years younger than Sir Winston.

They last met in 1959—when Ike was president of the United States.

"I first met Sir Winston in 1942," said the former president, "that was when he visited President Roosevelt at the White House."

He paused once more. It was obvious that he was recalling, and with considerable emotion, bygone days.

"Since then," Ike went on, "he's been one of my favorite characters. I, I think the world of him."

Ike said Sir Winston gave him no idea, nor did hospital officials, of when Churchill might be leaving the hospital.

Another of Churchill's visitors today was Lewis Douglas, former U.S. ambassador to Britain.

"I found him looking very well," Douglas said on leaving the hospital. "We talked about books and old times. He said Gen. Eisenhower had been to see him."

Eisenhower visited Churchill after he and Mrs. Eisenhower lunched with Queen Elizabeth II at Buckingham Palace.

The queen's husband, Prince Philip, was not present. He was sailing at the Royal Cowes Regatta—and narrowly escaping serious injury in a double mishap. His yacht capsized in a squall, pitching him into the water. Later, a crane trying to hoist the water-logged boat from the water broke and narrowly missed hitting him.

U.S. Serves Summons On School Head

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—Rex H. Smelser, director of a Louisiana trade school under federal court orders to be integrated, Friday was served with a summons to appear at a contempt hearing and immediately criticized "the tardy service of the summons."

Smelser, director of the Sowell Vocational-Technical School at Lake Charles, is apparently the last of 13 Louisiana education officials ordered to appear at the Sept. 20 proceedings in Baton Rouge.

In a statement issued after a meeting with two members of the state attorney general's staff, Smelser deplored "the tardy service of the summons. . . ." He said it came only after he had been subjected to two weeks of intense publicity.

"The procedures used by the federal judiciary in announcing the suit publicly far in advance of service of the summons is akin to trial by news media," the statement said.

Smelser said seven of his Sowell subordinates were also served with summons for a deposition scheduled for Aug. 17. Registration books and files were also subpoenaed. State Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion has filed opposition to the hearing and his motion will be heard Aug. 15.

The contempt hearing order, signed July 27 in Baton Rouge by U. S. Dist. Judge E. Gordon West, was announced in Washington by Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy last week. It was directed at Smelser, the Louisiana State Board of Education, and State Education Supt. Shelby M. Jackson.

BLAME ALGERIANS

French Say Four Slain At Outpost

ALGIERS (UPI)—The French army said Friday that four Foreign Legionnaires, one an officer, have been killed by Algerian National Liberation army forces in a "particularly serious" incident at a Sahara outpost.

A communique said the incident Thursday night near Laghouat, 180 miles south of Algiers, appeared to have been "deliberately provoked by the National Liberation Army," and was a violation of the Evian accords that ended the Algerian war.

It was the gravest incident reported between French and Moslem troops since the cease-fire agreement reached in Evian last March went into effect.

The incident came amid new tension between Paris and Algiers stemming from refusal of President Charles de Gaulle to give independent Algeria $72 million in economic aid it has asked until an Algerian government is installed.

The French army command in Algeria said the shooting occurred at Ksar El Hiran, 13 miles east of Laghouat when a small detachment of unarmed Legionnaires, proceeding on a regular mission to Ksar El Hiran, came up against an armed element of the National Liberation Army (ALN).

"After having forced the Legionnaires to get out of their vehicles under the threat of their weapons, the ALN soldiers tied their hands and made them climb into the ALN vehicle," the communique said.

"Along the way, the captives managed to escape from their abductors who then opened fire, killing four Legionnaires, one of them an officer."

"The alert was given by two legionnaires who got away. This incident which seems to have been deliberately provoked by the ALN, constitutes a violation of the Evian accords."

The communique said the mixed central cease-fire commission had been asked to take up the issue and the French government was making a protest to the Algerian provisional executive.

The harsh tone of the communique revived the specter of possible intervention by the 300,000-strong French army remaining in Algeria to protect the rights of the army and European civilians in the country.

De Gaulle first warned of the possibility of such action three weeks ago when Algerian kidnapping of Europeans in Algerian cities reached a total of about 1,000 persons.

Blitzkreig In Georgia

Although one of the nation's most ardent supporters of "laws of the land" created by the supreme court, President Kennedy apparently gave his blessing and commendation to a planned blitzkreig of attempted intimidation in Albany, Ga. No rebuke came from him and the comment he made seemed to laud the agitators.

As pointed out by Thurman Sensing, executive vice-president of the Southern States Industrial Council, "The tragic goings on in the city of Albany, Ga.—one of the finest communities, composed of the finest people, in the United States—reflect the ugly rise of revolutionary methods in the United States."

When told that a philosophy of revolution could take root on American soil, many sincere Americans said, "It can't happen here." But the facts are piling up to contradict such assertions.

Determined to give the progressive community of Albany the saturation treatment, agitators pour into that town for the purpose of creating mass demonstrations that would electrify the country. These agitators had the cooperation of left-wing reporters and telecasters who regard the south as the whipping boy of the nation and apparently also had the good will and best wishes of the national administration. From that source at that time there came no statement calling for observance of the law, such as the pronouncements of President Kennedy on supreme court "law-of-the-land" rulings.

Behind the Albany invasion the phony pious talk of prayer crusades—was a design for a blitzkreig. The planners of the invasion figured that if such saturation tactics could overcome resistance in Albany, the same tactics would work elsewhere. The thinking of the agitators was that revolutionary protest methods would ride roughshod over the rule of law.

Since the word "revolution" is socially acceptable to the New Frontier, it is not surprising that Martin Luther King, Jr. minister and crusader for integration by force, should believe in such ruthless tactics.

President Kennedy has hailed "social revolution" in referring to Latin America.

His selection of officials testifies to the character of his thinking and his aims. For example, the New Frontier ambassador to Peru was James Loeb, former executive secretary of the radical Americans for Democratic Action. By placing this kind of liberal extremist in a position of great authority and sensitivity, Mr. Kennedy indicated to all Latin America the shape of the future he wants in that part of the world.

At home, the inner circle of the New Frontier is furiously angry with Congress—with constitutional requirements, that is. The palace guardsmen are insisting that president Kennedy engage in a direct dialogue with the people, bypassing Congress—the representatives of the people and states.

Just as Martin Luther King sought to ignore public ordinances in Albany, Ga., the New Frontiersmen want to ignore the national laws. In the field of defense planning, for instance, the intent of the law has been violated as greater and greater centralization of authority has been vested in the Secretary of Defense. The Thurmond hearings of last winter and spring revealed dangerous centralization and contempt for congressional authority. It was developed, for instance, that senior officers of the armed services could make statements to committees of congress only after their statements had been cleared with the New Frontier civilians holding top executive positions. As a result, Congress has been getting less information about defense department thinking and arrangements than it needs to make the laws.

A recent newspaper column by James Reston, Washington bureau chief of the New York Times and a strong supporter of the Kennedy administration, revealed the basic New Frontier attitude. Speaking of Congress, Mr. Reston said it "is a great system for calm waters or for drifting or even for sticking in the mud, but for stormy days it is a menace."

In the eyes of the Kennedy liberals, everything that slows down the New Frontier is a menace. Letting journalists in Washington expose embarrassing aspects of the Kennedy administration. The state department regards as a menace anyone who opposes leftist revolution in Latin America or Africa, Martin Luther King, Jr. and all the spurious "non-violence" groups that stir violence are resentful of communities and community leaders who put law and order in the path of revolutionary social goals.

But America's social revolutionaries badly misjudge the temper of America. The overwhelming mass of the people of the United States are devoted to orderly processes of government. They don't like leftist revolution overseas or at home. The self-appointed social-radical elite in Washington—and their radical allies in Albany—are likely to feel the wrath of the American people once the truth about revolutionary aims is recognized.

Puritans On Parade

One trouble about "reformers" and "crusaders" is that they always pick up a lot of helpers they don't want. Human dregs invariably attach themselves to movements of this kind and sometimes with good reason.

The newest group to worry about its public "image," along with President Kennedy, is the young army of "peace marchers." Members of this group are alarmed by the prospects of acquiring a bad name for their movement, brought on by beatniks, unkempt demonstrators and other undesirable joiners.

First drastic result of the protesters' campaign was the Chicago marchers' current requirement that all demonstrators swear to an oath of celibacy before joining any trek.

On a recent Chicago-to-Washington march, the leader, a Harvard student, called for all marchers to remain clean-shaven, neatly dressed and free, at all costs, of any tinge of "libidinous scandal."

That march only two reached the capital. Apparently being clean-shaven and celibate was too much for most of them. Who ever heard of a beatnik who wasn't too lazy to shave?

Hurricanes usually are given feminine names in alphabetical order. However the hurricane of the 1949 season was dubbed "Harry" after President Harry S. Truman, who was visiting Miami at the time.

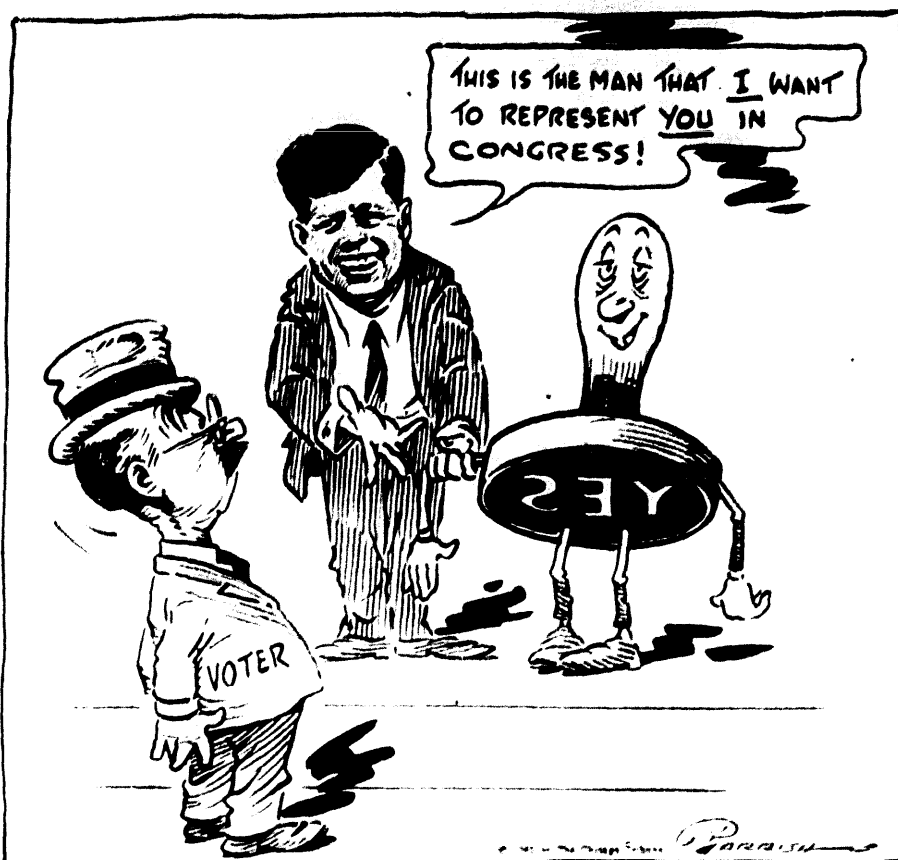

A four-mile pipeline carries milk direct from a pasture to a cheese factory in northern Italy.

Ships carrying 63.6 million tons of cargo used the Panama Canal in 1961, a record.

Pakistan will change to the decimal system this year. The Pakistani rupee will be divided into 100 pias, instead of 16 annas as heretofore.

In 1960, 105 new hotels containing 22,251 rooms were built in the United States, at a cost of $19,451 a room.

Pressure For Ted Kennedy

Senate Election Investigators Scrutinizing Explosive Affidavit In Torrid Massachusetts Primary

Senate election investigators are scrutinizing an explosive affidavit in the torrid primary battle between "Ted" Kennedy, 30-year-old brother of the President, and Massachusetts Attorney General Edward McCormack.

According to this sworn statement by Armand Serre, an innkeeper and delegate to the Democratic state convention, the postmaster of North Adams, Mass., was used to line up support for young Kennedy. He was over-whelmingly endorsed for the senatorial nomination, but McCormack refused to accept that and is vigorously challenging "Ted" in a bitter primary campaign.

Serre also alleges that he was in effect threatened with retaliation when he refused to switch from McCormack to Kennedy.

Representative Edward Boland, D-Mass., is directly involved in all affairs in Serre's affidavit. Boland, long politically close to the President's family, was in the forefront in masterminding Ted's successful convention drive.

Boland is also charged by Serre with passing himself off as a new work representative.

In his affidavit, Serre states he was against "Ted" because there was enough Kennedy in politics—even though I think Jack Kennedy is the best President we ever had, and his brother Bob is doing a great job as Attorney General.

While this dynamite-laden document is in the hands of Senate election investigators, no further request for a probe has yet been made. Committee members understand that is in the offing. They have also been told that other equally explosive affidavits are forthcoming.

During the heated convention fight, numerous charges of "White House pressure" in behalf of "Ted" were made. Foremost among them were:

That more than 50 postmaster ships were left unfilled so they could be dangled as prizes for delegate votes; leading delegates were threatened with income tax investigation, deportation proceedings were allegedly initiated, and members of the White House staff and other government agencies actively campaigned for young Kennedy.

Attorney General McCormack indicated he had affidavits affirming various charges, but did not make them public.

SPELLING IT OUT—The full text of Serre's intriguing affidavit is as follows:

"Statement of Armand Serre, delegate to the Democratic State Convention from Ward IV, North Adams, James King of Ludlow came to visit me at least four times. On June 3, I was visited by King and Edward Boland, Congressman from Springfield, and requested to vote for Kennedy. I was asked why I was not with Kennedy."

When Boland first walked in, he said he was from the ABC and he wanted to sit and talk to me. I am a liquor establishment in Florida, Mass. known as Peter's Hideaway, and this is where Boland came to see me. I told him I had never met McCormack, and I also hadn't met Kennedy, but I thought McCormack had the experience over Kennedy.

Further, I thought there were enough Kennedys in politics, even though I think Jack Kennedy is the best President we ever had, and his brother Bob is doing a great job as Attorney General. I discussed with Ed Boland the postmaster ship that was open in North Adams and that the City Committee had approved a candidate who was not a veteran.

Boland said it was too late to do anything now because he was not a veteran and Senator Smith wanted the second man on the list. The North Adams City Committee however would not endorse the second man on the list. I then told Boland to either tell Lawrence J. Reisle that he cannot get it and don't keep him on the fence because this was the North Adams City Committee choice.

Ed Boland left and at the convention, Boland saw me and asked I Kennedy had my vote. I again said he didn't. Then someone from North Adams, namely Louis Sinclitto, came to me and told me that Boland has the name of Reisle, endorsed by the North Adams City Committee, placed on the President's desk for approval as postmaster for North Adams.

At the convention floor, Ed Boland told Armand (me) that he Boland would remember this because they don't forget the one that didn't go along with Kennedy. When Louis Sinclitto told me about the postmaster ship at the convention floor, he also told me that he had a couple of clambakes lined up for him.

I still insisted I would vote for McCormack and did.

I have read this statement written on 2 pages, and it is all true.

ARMAND SERRE, 124 Barth St., North Adams, Mass. (Ward 4). Then personally appeared before me, Armand Serre, and swore the above statement to be the truth to the best of his knowledge. Richard T. Dolan, Notary Public.

Military Shutout

Joint Chiefs Of Staff's Duties Are Shunted To Professors

As chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Maxwell Taylor will find himself out of the privileged sanctuary of the White House, where he served as the President's military alter ego, and in the thick of the deadly serious battle between the services and Defense Secretary McNamara. From the White House, General Taylor could support Mr. McNamara in what some in the Pentagon have begun to call Operation Downgrade. As a spokesman of the Armed Services, General Taylor will have to fight for its rights—or lose the loyalty of the generals and admirals who now count on him.

Ever since he moved into the Defense Secretary's office, Mr. McNamara has displaced the military including the Joint Chiefs of Staff. In this he has had support from some Senators and Representatives who feel that there must be something a little wrong with any man who chooses the low pay and restrictive military life instead of the gaudier, more lucrative profession of politics.

Mr. McNamara's latest move, which has had a shattering effect on Pentagon morale, goes beyond anything anti-military civilians have ever suggested. It is also potentially dangerous and may have a harmful effect on the United States defense posture and capabilities. With the stroke of the pen, he has removed from the military one of its prime functions: the evaluation and selection of weapons systems.

In the past, the Army, Navy, and Air Force were entrusted with the job. The Weapons Systems Evaluation Group made its studies, and reported directly to the Joint Chiefs of Staff. They, in turn, would arrive at judgments based on years of experience and training, then make their recommendations to the Defense Secretary. This is no longer so.

Presumably on the theory that military men can't be trusted to know what's best for combat troops, the Defense Department has turned over weapons evaluation to a private group organized and financed by nine universities. This group of professors, headed by Richard Bissell, former deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency, is known as the Institute of Defense Analysis and works under contract to the government. It is almost entirely civilian. When it has made its evaluations, it reports directly to the Defense Secretary, bypassing the Joint Chiefs and the military.

It would be interesting to know how many of these men in the Institute have ever been in a tank, under fire, piloted a fighter plane, or gone under the seas in a submarine. They have no need, obviously, for this kind of experience. As one officer put it bitterly: "They've got their slide rules, haven't they? Why should they have to know what our combat needs are? But I've never heard of a thinking cap stopping a bullet."

Normally, the outcry from the Joint Chiefs and their subordinates would be deafening. But Secretary McNamara has taken care of that by his order "muzzling" the military. It was supposed to keep the generals from talking out on Communism and the cold war, but as I warned many months ago, it is being used now to stifle any kind of criticism or dissent. It is interesting—and saddening—to recall that under Presidents Truman and Eisenhower, military policy was hotly debated at the White House, the Pentagon, and on the floor of Congress. Today there is only silence. On the New Frontier, it's the fastest gun who gives the orders.

The decision to have as much research as possible done by non-government organizations has in general been a wise one, and President Kennedy deserves credit for it. But in applying it to military matters, Secretary McNamara has forgotten that with it went the warning not to deprive officials of their "significant decision-making responsibilities." The warning came from Budget Director David Bell. Defense is too important to entrust to academic groups whose judgments are not conditioned by the give-and-take of military and congressional debate. Making messenger boys of trained soldiers is hardly the way to maintain American might.

SYLVIA PORTER

Russia Uses Ads

Full Two-Page Spreads Sent To Three American Newspapers

Quite a lull has been made in our press recently over the fact that the Soviet Union in late July handed $16,175.00 in hard cash to three American newspapers to pay for full two-page ads in which the Kremlin printed the text of Premier Khrushchev's 13,000 word oration before the World Peace Congress, July 10.

The editorial reaction here was a mixture of shock and puzzlement. That 1962's disciples of Karl Marx—who loathed marketing costs because they added to the prices of goods—would consent to advertise anything even a Khrushchev speech.

But the U.S. editorial response is based on ignorance of the fascinating fact that in the last few years advertising—advertising agencies and advertising training courses have been flourishing in the USSR. As Dr. Marshall Goldman, a Wellesley College economics professor and an associate at Harvard University's Russian Research Center, put it in an interview: "Advertising by Soviet enterprises in Russia today is not only permitted but actually encouraged and nurtured. Despite the clear ideological injunctions against it, advertising will continue to expand."

This is in direct conflict with the widespread impression throughout the west but here are facts to confirm the point, collected by Goldman for a new book, "Soviet Marketing—Distribution in a Controlled Economy," to be published next year.

Soviet enterprises will spend $30 to $40 million on advertising in 1962, payable with the $12 billion U.S. enterprises spend but enormous against the totals they were spending only a decade ago. There are now 30 to 40 independent advertising agencies in the USSR which since they are all state owned perform, in addition to preparing and placing ads, many of the functions of our trade associations.

All the large department stores have advertising departments which take care of window displays, decorations, store layouts, writing ads, etc.

To consolidate and coordinate advertising activities, an "advertising agency" has been set up in the Ministry of Trade. For a commission, this or any of the independent agencies will prepare advertising copy for magazines, posters, billboards, local newspapers, as well as radio and TV commercials.

In 1961, schools began to offer special courses in advertising. Why? Goldman has four major explanations. First, the Kremlin has found advertising helps raise the quality of consumer goods. Manufacturers are now compelled to identify their goods with production marks, are encouraged also to use trade marks and to advertise goods under their own names. If the products are inferior, the manufacturer "exposes himself to criticism and punishment"—which spurs more attention to quality. The costs of advertising," Goldman observes, are more than offset by savings in inspection and administration controls.

Second, while the introduction of self-service stores has eliminated the cost of sales clerks, it also has left the Russian consumer in a maze. "Consider this quote from a Soviet publication: 'Advertising promotes an improvement in the culture of Soviet marketing. Thanks to well organized advertising, the consumer can more rapidly find the goods he needs, purchase them with a smaller expenditure of time and select the goods according to his particular taste.' Could Madison Avenue ask for higher praise?"

Third, even in Russia's extreme seller's market, surplus have piled up. The most startling evidence came from Khrushchev himself at the 22nd Party Congress in 1961 when he complained there were over 1.5 billion pairs of shoes backed up in USSR warehouses—40 per cent of annual sales! Also piled up are cameras, watches, bicycles, aluminum pots and pans, electric irons, meat grinders. How to move these goods? Advertising.

Finally, the Russians have found out that the quickest, cheapest way to sell new products is to advertise them to the public.

Advertising is still small in Russia but the trend is plain and emphasizes Goldman, if the Russians couldn't do without it in their scarcity economy, they find they need it more and more as their production of consumer goods mounts and average family incomes increase.

Who knows? Somewhere in the USSR, a Soviet counterpart of Vance Packard may even now be working on a Russian version of "The Wastemakers."

With the stroke of the pen, he has removed from the military one of its prime functions: the evaluation and selection of weapons systems.

In the past, the Army, Navy, and Air Force were entrusted with the job. The Weapons Systems Evaluation Group made its studies and reported directly to the Joint Chiefs of Staff. They, in turn, would arrive at judgments based on years of experience and training, then make their recommendations to the Defense Secretary. This is no longer so.

Presumably on the theory that military men can't be trusted to know what's best for combat troops, the Defense Department has turned over weapons evaluation to a private group organized and financed by nine universities. This group of professors, headed by Richard Bissell, former deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency, is known as the Institute of Defense Analysis and works under contract to the government. It is almost entirely civilian. When it has made its evaluations, it reports directly to the Defense Secretary, bypassing the Joint Chiefs and the military.

It would be interesting to know how many of these men in the Institute have ever been in a tank under fire, piloted a fighter plane, or gone under the seas in a submarine. They have no need, obviously, for this kind of experience. As one officer put it bitterly: "They've got their slide rules, haven't they? Why should they have to know what our combat needs are? But I've never heard of a thinking cap stopping a bullet."

Normally, the outcry from the Joint Chiefs and their subordinates would be deafening. But Secretary McNamara has taken care of that by his order "muzzling" the military. It was supposed to keep the generals from talking out on Communism and the cold war, but as I warned many months ago, it is being used now to stifle any kind of criticism or dissent. It is interesting — and saddening — to recall that under Presidents Truman and Eisenhower, military policy was hotly debated at the White House, the Pentagon, and on the floor of Congress. Today there is only silence. On the New Frontier, it's the fastest gun who gives the orders.

The decision to have as much research as possible done by non-government organization has in general been a wise one, and President Kennedy deserves credit for it. But in applying it to military matters, Secretary McNamara has forgotten that with it went the warning not to deprive officials of their "significant decision-making responsibilities." The warning came from Budget Director David Bell. Defense is too important to entrust to academic groups whose judgments are not conditioned by the give-and-take of military and congressional debate. Making messenger boys of trained soldiers is hardly the way to maintain American might.

SYLVIA PORTER

Russia Uses Ads

Full Two-Page Spreads Sent To Three American Newspapers

Quite a to-do has been made in our press recently over the fact that the Soviet Union in late July handed $16,175.20 in hard cash to three American newspapers to pay for full two-page ads in which the Kremlin printed the text of Premier Khrushchev's 13,000-word oration before the World Peace Congress July 10.

The editorial reaction here was a mixture of shock and puzzlement that 1962's disciples of Karl Marx — who loathed marketing costs because they added to the prices of goods — would condescend to advertise anything, even a Khrushchev speech.

But the U. S. editorial response is based on ignorance of the fascinating fact that in the last few years, advertising, advertising agencies and advertising training courses have been flourishing in the USSR. As Dr. Marshall Goldman, a Wellesley College economics professor and an associate at Harvard University's Russian Research Center, put it in an interview, "Advertising by Soviet enterprises in Russia today is not only permitted but actually encouraged and nurtured. Despite the clear ideological injunctions against it, advertising will continue to expand."

This is in direct conflict with the widespread impression throughout the west but here are facts to confirm the point, collected by Goldman for a new book, "Soviet Marketing — Distribution in a Controlled Economy," to be published next year. Soviet enterprises will spend $30 to $40 million on advertising in 1962, picaresque with the $12 billion U. S. enterprises spend but enormous against the totals they were spending only a decade ago.

There are now 30 to 40 independent advertising agencies in the USSR which since they are all state owned perform, in addition to preparing and placing ads, many of the functions of our trade associations.

All the large department stores have advertising departments which take care of window displays, decorations, store layouts, writing ads, etc.

To consolidate and coordinate advertising activities, an "advertising agency" has been set up in the Ministry of Trade. For a commission, this or any of the independent agencies will prepare advertising copy for magazines, posters, billboards, local newspapers, as well as radio and TV commercials.

In 1961, schools began to offer special courses in advertising. Why? Goldman has four major explanations.

First, the Kremlin has found advertising helps raise the quality of consumer goods. Manufacturers are now compelled to identify their goods with production marks, are encouraged also to use trade marks and to advertise goods under their own names. If the products are inferior, the manufacturer "exposes himself to criticism and punishment" — which spurs more attention to quality. "The costs of advertising," Goldman observes,

"are more that offset by savings in inspection and administration costs."

Second, while the introduction of self service stores has eliminated the cost of sales clerks, it also has left the Russian consumer in a maze. Consider this quote from a Soviet publication: "Advertising permits an improvement in the culture of Soviet marketing. Thanks to well - organized advertising, the consumer can move rapidly, find the goods he needs, purchase them with a smaller expenditure of time and select the goods according to his particular taste." Could Madison Avenue ask for higher praise?

Third, even in Russia's extreme seller's market, surpluses have piled up. The most startling disclosure came from Khrushchev himself at the 22nd Party Congress in 1961 when he complained there were over 1.5 billion rubles' worth of shoes backed up in USSR warehouses — 40 per cent of annual sales! Also piled up are cameras, watches, bicycles, aluminum pots and pans, electric irons, meat grinders. How to move these goods? Advertise.

Finally, the Russians have found out that the quickest, cheapest way to sell new products is to advertise them to the public.

Advertising is still small in Russia but the trend is plain and, emphasizes Goldman, if the Russians couldn't do without it in their scarcity economy, they'll find they need it more and more as their production of consumer goods mounts and average family incomes increase.

Who knows? Somewhere in the USSR, A Soviet counterpart of Vance Packard may even now be working on a Russian version of "The Wastemakers".

PROPOSED REGULATIONS

Medical Groups For Drug Curbs

By United Press International
Medical groups and drug manufacturers Friday voiced approval of the government's proposed stricter controls on experimental drugs, but warned too harsh controls would impede the development of new drugs.

The new regulations, announced by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Anthony J. Celebrezze, apparently resulted from the distribution of thalidomide, the baby deforming drug. The Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association said the federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA) must be careful to avoid "withholding from the medical profession of new drugs which may save lives or alleviate suffering."

The new regulations would empower the FDA to halt tests if doubt arises as to the safety of a new drug.

James W. Bradley, president of Dorsey Laboratories, Lincoln, Neb., and Albert G. Worton, vice president of Warren Teed Products Co., Columbus, Ohio, praised the new regulations.

"They are a good idea and won't interfere with any ethical pharmaceutical house," Bradley said.

"The FDA has done a fine job in the past and some new regulations are necessary," Worton said.

However, a spokesman for E.R. Squibb and Sons Co., Chicago, said, "We do not believe the proposed regulations will pose anything more than administrative problems for us. Our own controls exceed those proposed by the FDA."

An official of Stewart Laboratories, Los Angeles, said the new regulations would not hamper research. Dr. Walter E. Ward, medical director of Cutter Laboratories, Berkeley, Calif., said his firm has never opposed regulations the FDA "felt were necessary and sensible."

Dr. J. E. Peavy, Texas health commissioner, said he agreed with the proposed regulations.

"Competent clinical investigators should be the only ones who receive experimental drugs, and the patient should be informed he is taking an experimental drug," Peavy said.

A spokesman for the Allegheny County Medical Society at Pittsburgh said the regulations mean much more work for doctors "but it is going to save just one life, we are willing to take on this extra work."

Negro Booked For Forgery By Local Officers

Abbe Chaney, 27, Negro of 1610 Broad St., Monroe, was booked Friday by Monroe and West Monroe officers on a forgery charge as the result of a joint investigation by Twin Cities police department.

Officers in West Monroe said Chaney's plan worked like this: Wednesday, he allegedly obtained a check on a Choudrant bank, and made it payable to himself. He allegedly forged his employer's name upon it and deposited it in the Ouachita National Bank in West Monroe. It was for $100.

Chaney then allegedly used the deposit slip to write personal checks.

Chaney was transferred to the Ouachita Parish jail.

Pilot Escort For X15 Makes Forced Landing

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)—A fighter pilot flying escort for an X15 rocket ship flight made an emergency landing Friday when his F100 Starfire jet developed a strong vibration in the fuselage.

Air Force Maj. Bob Rushworth, who is also an X15 pilot, was flying in a so-called "chase" plane when the trouble developed.

The X15 launch from its B52 mother ship at an altitude of 45,000 feet had just been canceled when Rushworth's voice was heard on the radio saying, "I'm in trouble."

The X15 cancellation was prompted by technical difficulties. Air Force observers on the ground thought Rushworth's jet engine flamed out but after he landed he said he purposely cut the engine because of the vibration. He re-lighted the engine a few minutes later and made a landing under power at Rogers Dry Lake on this base.

The B52 meanwhile returned to base with the X15 still slung under its right wing and chief space agency pilot Joe Walker at the controls.

A space agency spokesman said "there might have been a serious situation" if the X15 had been launched on schedule. He explained that Rushworth chose for his emergency landing the area where the rocket ship usually skids to earth. The emergency equipment might have caused a hazardous traffic problem if both planes had come in at the same time.

Last Request Of Executed Killer In Vain

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—A murderer who wanted his eyes to live on after his death, lost that wish on Friday for the second time.

Texas-born Luis Moya, 23, who died in a triple execution in San Quentin Prison's gas chamber Wednesday, tried to give them away when he was still alive.

Last year he read of a mission-ary who needed a corneal transplant from a living person. Moya offered his in partial atonement for his part in the 1958 hired murder of Olga Duncan, 30, of Santa Barbara, Calif.

Prison officials were willing. But state attorneys halted action because of the possibility of legal liability in the event of a complication.

So the brown-eyed killer willed his body to Stanford University Medical Center, with the hope his eyes would be used for transplant.

His body was received here Wednesday night and the eyes sent to the eye bank. But there doctors found that cyanide — the gas used in the execution — had penetrated the corneas.

Yolanda Gets Divorce From Dance Partner

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Yolanda Veloz, her former dancing partner, Friday.

He just has left the home and has refused to come back," she told a judge. "We argued quite a bit. It was very difficult to live together. We just didn't get along."

Frank N. Veloz, 60, and the former Miss Yolanda Casazza, 30, were married in Philadelphia on March 15, 1933.

In their teens the couple had entered a dance contest and were eliminated in the first round. They began a serious study of dancing, practiced long hours, won contests and finally became night-club and stage professionals who grossed $25,000 a week on a concert tour.

They opened dance studios in numerous cities.

Veloz filed a divorce suit in January. Yolanda replied with a cross-complaint in March. Each made general charges of cruelty. Veloz withdrew his complaint Friday.

Under a property settlement Yolanda will receive 60 per cent and Veloz 40 per cent of the income from their dance studios. He'll make a yearly token alimony payment of $1.

Police Busy On Mishaps Here Friday

Automobile mishaps were the main items occupying local law enforcement officers Friday.

Northeast State College professor Daniel E. Dupree's auto was estimated as totally demolished by Monroe police after it collided with a two-ton truck driven by Negro Walter Coleman, 38, 3503 Curry St. Monroe.

Dupree, 29, of 2001 Sherwood, Monroe, was ticketed for running a stop sign. Coleman was ticketed for driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

State police of Troop F in Monroe said a Bernice woman was injured Friday night when a planker flew loose from a truck and smashed the windshield on her car on White's Ferry Road about one half mile from the Ouachita Parish line in Union Parish.

Mrs. Gladys Hanson Autrey, 35, Bernice, was driven to Cypress and North Seventh Streets in West Monroe where she was picked up by Mulhearn ambulance and taken to St. Francis hospital.

Negro Nathaniel White, 2906 Grammont St., Monroe, driver of the pickup truck, was ticketed for operating a motor vehicle without the load being secured.

Four nineteen-year-olds were involved in a wreck at Grammont and Hall Streets in Monroe Friday night. Two were hurt.

Twin sisters Barbara and Betty Vines of 406 St. John St., Monroe, were injured as they rode south on Hall with Ray D. Tatum, 19, 200 Pine St., Monroe, who was ticketed for running a stop sign.

Tatum's car collided with one driven by Carol E. Bryan, 1815 College Ave., Monroe.

Northeast Gets Rainfall Late To Save Crops

NORTHEAST DROUGHT
By The Associated Press
For many farmers throughout the Northeast, the rain that fell Friday was too little and too late. Although farmers and woodland experts in most of New England reported the more than an inch of rain that fell in the last two days put an end to weeks of drought there, it wasn't the same elsewhere.

Pennsylvania agriculture officials welcomed the hard-hitting thundershowers that pelted their area Thursday but said the storms failed to snap the state's 13-week drought.

In many instances, Pennsylvania farmers said, crops were ruined weeks ago and those now in bloom still are in danger.

The rainfall in New York State came too late to revive pastureland and save hay crops in central and eastern sections of the state, officials said.

Caution Urged In Baby Food Additives Use

ROME (AP)—A group of United Nations food experts urged great caution Friday in the use of additives in baby foods.

A joint report issued by the Food and Agriculture Organization and the World Health Organization said additives are sometimes necessary to prevent babies from turning stale or rancid. But it warned that babies have a lower resistance to toxic additives than adults.

"Foods that are specifically prepared for babies require separate consideration from all other foods as regards the use of food additives and toxicological risks," the report said.

"If the use of a food additive is necessary in a baby food, great caution should be exercised both in the choice of additive and in the level of use."

East German Guards Defect

BONN, Germany (AP)—Eight East German participants in the 1961 international Communist youth festival who defected while in Helsinki, Finland, said Friday many more probably would have fled if surveillance had been less severe.

The defectors—six boys and two girls—were among 37 East Germans reported to have succeeded in fleeing via Sweden.

"We were watched and controlled day and night," one of the defectors, a girl university student, said at a news conference. Neither she nor the other seven were identified.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother won't sign for me to get married and I can't get married without it because I am 16. She doesn't want me to marry Len because if I do she'll lose her maid and baby-sitter. Len is 19 and he keeps telling me we can run away and get married in another state if we lie about our ages. I am sick of school and hate being a slave to my mother. Can you give me some advice?

SIXTEEN AND UNDECIDED
DEAR SIXTEEN: Stay home and forget about marrying Len. A boy who would encourage a girl to elope and lie about her age is a poor risk. You aren't dry behind the ears yet and Len sounds like a drip!

DEAR ABBY: Give "EXHAUSTED WIFE" my formula for getting her husband to pick up after himself. I was married a month and discovered that my husband would not pick up after himself. Being a fastidious housekeeper I cleaned the house as usual, but half an hour before he was due to arrive home from work I threw all his things just where he had left them. Some on the bedroom floor, some in the living room and some in the bathroom. When he came home and saw them he asked, "Didn't you clean the house today?" I replied, "Yes." Then he asked why his things weren't picked up. I told him that since he left them there I figured that's where he wanted them. I have had no trouble since.

MARRIED 35 YEARS

DEAR ABBY: I'll come right to the point. I no longer love my husband. I love someone else.

Special Tracer Material Found In Nuclear Test

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Atomic Energy Commission said Friday that special tracer material was produced in the high-altitude nuclear test over Johnston Island on July 8 which will help the world scientists to evaluate the radioactive debris from the blast.

It explained that the material was cadmium-109 which can be detected by radiochemical analysis. Officials said it has a relatively long life of 13 years and has not been produced previously in significant quantities in other nuclear tests.

The announcement said the purpose of the tracer is to enable scientists around the world to study the circulation of material from high altitudes into and through the earth's atmosphere. Based on the experience gained in the "Tak and Orange" high altitude tests over Johnston Island in 1958, it probably will be a year before the debris from the detonation of July 8 returns to the earth's surface in detectable quantities.

Information gathered during this program will be made available to the world through the United Nations.

Nixon Blasts Demos Attack On FBI Chief

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon sharply criticized Friday an attack on J. Edgar Hoover at the recent Western States Democratic Conference, and said Democratic leaders not only should repudiate the attack but extend an apology to the Federal Bureau of Investigation director.

Nixon, former vice president and Republican candidate for governor of California, issued his statement to the Seattle Times during a visit to the Seattle World's Fair.

He described as shocking the remarks made Monday at the Democratic meeting by W. H. Ferry, vice president of the Fund for the Republic, Inc., a Santa Barbara, Calif. organization.

Ferry charged that Hoover has exaggerated the Communist espionage menace out of all proportion and described Hoover as "our official spy scatter."

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother won't sign for me to get married and I can't get married without it. I want to marry Len because I do she'll lose her maid and baby-sitter. Len is 19 and she keeps telling me we can run away and get married in another state if we lie about our ages. I am sick of school and hate being a slave to my mother. Can you give me some advice?

SIXTEEN AND UNDECEATED DEAR SIXTEEN: Stay home and forget about marrying Len. A boy who would encourage a girl to elope and lie about her age is a poor risk. You aren't dry behind the ears yet and Len sounds like a drip!

DEAR ABBY: Give "EXHAUSTED WIFE" my formula for getting her husband to pick up after himself. I was married a month and discovered that my husband would not pick up after himself. Being a fastidious housekeeper I cleaned the house as usual, but half an hour before he was due to arrive home from work I threw all his things just where he had left them. Some on the bedroom floor, some in the living room and some in the bathroom. When he came home and saw them he asked, "Didn't you clean the house today?" I replied, "Yes." Then he asked why his things weren't picked up. I told him that since he left them there I figured that's where he wanted them. I have had no trouble since.

MARRIED 35 YEARS DEAR ABBY: I'll come right to the point. I no longer love my husband. I love someone else.

Special Tracer Material Found In Nuclear Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission said Friday that special tracer material was produced in the high-altitude nuclear test over Johnston Island on July 8 which will help the world scientists to evaluate the radioactive debris from the blast.

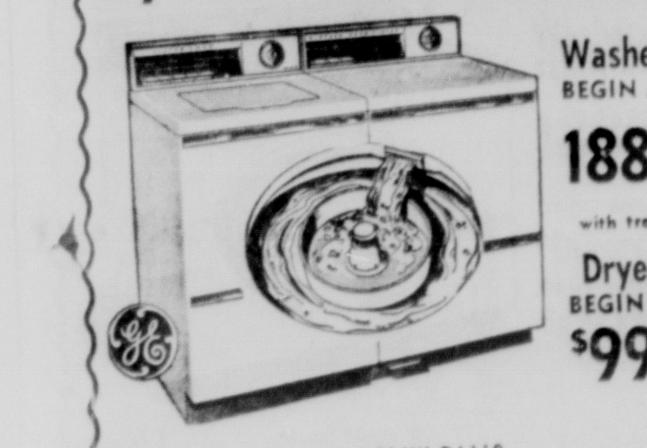

It explained that the material was cadmium-109 which can be detected by radiochemical analysis. Officials said it has a relatively long life of 1.3 years and has not been produced previously in significant quantities in other nuclear tests.

The announcement said: "The purpose of the tracer is to enable scientists around the world to study the circulation of material from high altitudes into and through the earth's atmosphere. Based on the experience gained in the 'Tak' and 'Orange' high altitude tests over Johnston Island in 1958, it probably will be a year before the debris from the detonation of July 8 returns to the earth's surface in detectable quantities.

"Information gathered during this program will be made available to the world through the United Nations."

Yolanda Gets Divorce From Dance Partner

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Yolanda divorced Veloz, her former dancing partner, Friday.

"He just has left the home and has refused to come back," she told a judge. "We argued quite a bit. It was very difficult to live together. We just didn't get along."

Frank N. Veloz, 60, and the former Miss Yolanda Casazza, 50, were married in Philadelphia on March 15, 1933.

In their teens the couple had entered a dance contest and were eliminated in the first round. They began a serious study of dancing, practiced long hours, won contests and finally became night-club and stage professionals who grossed $25,000 a week on a concert tour.

They opened dance studios in numerous cities.

Veloz filed a divorce suit in January. Yolanda replied with a cross-complaint in March. Each made general charges of cruelty. Veloz withdrew his complaint Friday.

Under a property settlement Yolanda will receive 60 per cent and Veloz 40 per cent of the income from their dance studios. He'll make a yearly token alimony payment of $1.

Police Busy On Mishaps Here Friday

Automobile mishaps were the main items occupying local law enforcement officers Friday.

Northeast State College professor Daniel E. Dupree's auto was estimated as totally demolished by Monroe police after it collided with a two-ton truck driven by Negro Walter Coleman, 38, 3503 Curry St., Monroe.

Dupree, 29, of 2001 Sherwood, Monroe, was ticketed for running a stop sign. Coleman was ticketed for driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

State police of Troop F in Monroe said a Bernice woman was injured Friday night when a plank flew loose from a truck and smashed the windshield on her car on White's Ferry Road about one half mile from the Ouachita Parish line in Union Parish.

Mrs. Gladys Hanson Autrey, 35, Bernice, was driven to Cypress and North Seventh Streets in West Monroe where she was picked up by Mulhearn ambulance and taken to St. Francis hospital.

Negro Nathaniel White, 2906 Grammont St., Monroe, driver of the pickup truck, was ticketed for operating a motor vehicle without the load being secured.

Four nineteen-year-olds were involved in a wreck at Grammont and Hall Streets in Monroe Friday night. Two were hurt.

Twin sisters Barbara and Betty Vines of 406 St. John St., Monroe, were injured as they rode south on Hall with Ray D. Tatum, 19, 200 Pine St., Monroe, who was ticketed for running a stop sign.

Tatum's car collided with one driven by Carole F. Bryan, 1813 College Ave., Monroe.

MORE MORE West Monroe police Friday night booked Ray Venable, 17, of route four, Monroe for reckless driving.

In Monroe, police booked Rudolph and Randolph Ainsworth for battery. The 24-year-old brothers reside at route three, box 262, West Monroe.

Monroe police also reported a drink machine and telephone pried open in separate incidents Friday. An undetermined amount of cash was taken from both.

A. C. Elliott, 3601 Lee Ave. complained to Monroe police of theft of a radio he valued at $100 Friday.

Booked for theft Friday by Monroe police was Negro John Wesley Wright, 26, Negro, 401 N. 23rd St., Monroe. Bond was set at $500.

Caution Urged In Baby Food Additives Use

ROME (AP) — A group of United Nations food experts urged great caution Friday in the use of additives in baby foods.

A joint report issued by the Food and Agriculture Organization and the World Health Organization said additives are sometimes necessary to prevent baby food from turning stale or rancid. But it warned that babies have a lower resistance to toxic additives than adults.

"Foods that are specifically prepared for babies require separate consideration from all other foods as regards the use of food additives and toxicological risks," the report said.

"If the use of a food additive is necessary in a baby food, great caution should be exercised both in the choice of additive and in the level of use."

Northeast Gets Rainfall Late To Save Crops

NORTHEAST DROUGHT By The Associated Press

For many farmers throughout the Northeast, the rain that fell Friday was too little and too late. Although farmers and woodland experts in most of New England reported the more than an inch of rain that fell in the last two days put an end to weeks of drought there, it wasn't the same elsewhere.

Pennsylvania agriculture officials welcomed the hard-hitting thundershowers that pelted their area Thursday but said the storms failed to snap the state's 13-week drought.

In many instances, Pennsylvania farmers said, crops were ruined weeks ago and those now coming to bloom still are in danger.

The rainfall in New York State came too late to revive pastureland and save hay crops in central and eastern sections of the state, officials said.

Former Miss Louisiana Weds

CENTREVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Beauty queen Sharon Rene Brown, a former "Miss Louisiana," was married Friday to a local businessman.

The ceremony was performed here July 28 by probate Judge G. S. Stacy.

Miss Brown, 19, attended Louisiana Tech and was queen of the 1962 Sugar Bowl. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Brown of Minden, La.

Scales, known in Birmingham golf circles, is in the investment business.

Pilot Escort For X15 Makes Forced Landing

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — A fighter pilot flying escort for an X15 rocket ship flight made an emergency landing Friday when his F105 Starfire jet developed a strong vibration in the fuselage.

Air Force Maj. Bob Rushworth, who is also an X15 pilot, was flying in a so-called "chase" plane when the trouble developed.

The X15 launch from its B52 mother ship at an altitude of 45,000 feet had just been canceled when Rushworth's voice was heard on the radio saying, "I'm in trouble."

The X15 cancellation was prompted by technical difficulties. Air Force observers on the ground thought Rushworth's jet engine flamed out but after he landed he said he purposely cut the engine because of the vibration. He reignited the engine a few minutes later and made a landing under power at Rogers Dry Lake on this base.

The B52 meanwhile returned to base with the X15 still slung under its right wing and chief space agency pilot Joe Walker at the controls.

A space agency spokesman said "there might have been a serious situation" if the X15 had been launched on schedule. He explained that Rushworth chose for his emergency landing the area where the rocket ship usually skids to earth. The emergency equipment might have caused "a hazardous traffic problem" if both planes had come in at the same time.

Last Request Of Executed Killer In Vain

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A murderer who wanted his eyes to live on after his death, lost that wish for the second time Friday.

Texas-born Luis Moya, 23, who died in a triple execution in San Quentin Prison's gas chamber Wednesday, tried to give them away when he was still alive.

Last year he read of a missionary who needed a corneal transplant from a living person. Moya offered his in partial atonement for his part in the 1958 hired murder of Olga Duncan, 30, of Santa Barbara, Calif.

Prison officials were willing. But state attorneys halted action because of the possibility of legal liability in the event of a coma.

So the brown-eyed killer willed his body to Stanford University Medical Center, with the hope his eyes would be used for transplants.

His body was received here Wednesday night and the eyes sent to the eye bank. But there doctors found that cyanide — the death chamber gas — had penetrated the corneas.

PROPOSED REGULATIONS

Medical Groups For Drug Curbs

By United Press International
Medical groups and drug manufacturers Friday voiced approval of the government's proposed stricter controls on experimental drugs, but warned too harsh controls would impede the development of new drugs.

The new regulations, announced by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Anthony J. Celebrezze, apparently resulted from the distribution of thalidomide, the baby deforming drug.

The Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association said the federal food and Drug Administration (FDA) must be careful to avoid "withholding from the medical profession of new drugs which may save lives or alleviate suffering."

"The new regulations would empower the FDA to halt tests if doubt arises as to the safety of a new drug."

James W. Bradley, president of Dorsey Laboratories, Lincoln, Neb., and Albert G. Worton, vice president of Warren Teed Products Co., Columbus, Ohio, praised the new regulations.

"They are a good idea and won't interfere with any ethical pharmaceutical house," Bradley said.

"The FDA has done a fine job in the past and some new regulations are necessary," Worton said.

However, a spokesman for E.R. Squibb and Sons Co., Chicago, said "We do not believe the proposed regulations will pose anything more than administrative problems for us. Our own controls exceed those proposed by the FDA."

An official of Stewart Laboratories, Los Angeles, said the new regulations would not hamper research. Dr. Walter E. Ward, medical director of Cutter Laboratories, Berkeley, Calif., said his firm has never opposed regulations the FDA "felt were necessary and sensible."

Dr. J. E. Peavy, Texas health commissioner, said he agreed with the proposed regulations. "Competent clinical investigators should be the only ones who receive experimental drugs, and the patient should be informed he is taking an experimental drug," Peavy said.

A spokesman for the Allegheny County Medical Society at Pittsburgh said the regulations mean much more work for doctors "but if it is going to save just one life, we are willing to take on this extra work."

Negro Booked For Forgery By Local Officers

Abe Chaney, 27, Negro of 1610 Beards St., Monroe was booked Friday by Monroe and West Monroe officers on a forgery charge as the result of a joint investigation by Twin Cities police departments.

Officers in West Monroe said Chaney's plan worked like this: Wednesday, he allegedly obtained a check on a Choudrant bank, and made it payable to himself. He allegedly forged his employer's name upon it and deposited it in the Ouachita National Bank in West Monroe. It was for $100.

Chaney then allegedly used the deposit slip to write personal checks.

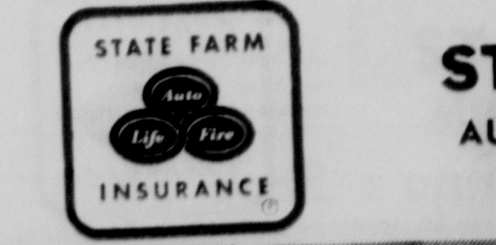

Chaney was transferred to the Ouachita Parish jail.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

The Civil War was many things. It was blood, sweat and tears. It was mud, dust and bad food. But the war had its lighter moments, too, and one of the lightest was the story of Job Stuart's new hat and John Pope's uniform dress coat.

It happened in the early days of a campaign between the battle of Cedar Mountain and the series of fights which history calls the Second Battle of Bull Run (Manassas).

Maj. Gen. John Pope was maneuvering his new Union Army of Virginia in the northern part of the state. Stonewall Jackson had trounced part of Pope's army at Cedar Mountain on Aug. 9, 1862. After that Pope's army lay between the Rapidan and the Rappahannock Rivers in an exposed position. The Confederates were looking for a way to strike before it could concentrate behind the Rappahannock.

Maj. Gen. James Ewell Brown (Jeb) Stuart, Confederate cavalry commander, mobilized his troops to deliver the first blow.

On the night of Aug. 17 Stuart and his staff rode out to Verdierville, Va., a small town south of the Rapidan, to meet a brigade of his cavalry led by Fitzhugh Lee, a nephew of Gen. Robert E. Lee.

Not finding Fitz Lee at Verdierville, Stuart and his staff bedded down for the night on the porch of a house. He sent Maj. Norman Fitzhugh out to find Fitz Lee and his troops and prepared to get a night's rest.

Carefully Stuart placed his new plumed hat in a safe place beside him with a haversack in which he carried his maps and papers, rolled up in his scarlet-lined cloak and drifted off to sleep. The hat was a special one and highly prized by Stuart because he had won it on a bet from Union Brig. Samuel W. L. Crawford in one of those highly unlikely incidents which could have occurred only in a war where many officers now fighting each other -- had served together in the Old Army before Fort Sumter.

Stuart had met Crawford and Brig. Gen. George D. Bayard, Union cavalry commander, during a truce after the battle of Cedar Mountain. During the conversation Stuart had remarked that the Federals would claim Cedar Mountain as a victory. Crawford bet a hat they would not.

A few days later, through the lines under a flag of truce came a significant hint with a copy of the N.Y. Herald claiming victory. It was for Stuart, with the compliments of Crawford.

Early the next morning the clatter and jingling of a cavalry troop around the porch awakened Stuart. He sat up and looked out. Mist hung low and the crossroads barely a quarter of a mile away was scarcely visible.

Bareheaded, Stuart peered through the mist trying to identify the troops. This must be Fitz Lee's cavalry, 12 hours late.

But challenges and pistol shots announced to the startled Stuart that it was Federal cavalry, not Fitz Lee's.

Stuart ran for his horse, kept saddled for just such emergencies. He vaulted the horse over a garden fence and rode hell for leather away from there.

The prized hat and the haversack remained on the porch to be scooped up by the Federal troopers. With them went his cloak and sword scabb.

Stuart and his staff escaped the Federal cavalry but as the hot August sun began to beam he had to knot a white handkerchief over his reddish locks in place of a hat.

All day he took the jibes: "Where's your hat?" "That was more than the 'Guy Cavalier' could take indefinitely. Something had to be done."

His chance came the night of Aug. 22-23.

With 1,500 men, Stuart started on a raid to Catlett's Station, a hamlet on the Orange and Alexandria railroad where it crossed Cedar Run. Here Pope had a supply base. If the bridge could be destroyed, Pope would be harried, perhaps crippled.

The troopers rode into the night and along the way captured a Negro who claimed he knew where Pope's tent stood in the Catlett camp. Lady Luck was smiling again on Stuart.

"It was the darkest night I ever knew," Stuart said. A quick August thunderstorm broke and drenched the troopers before they reached the camp.

The Negro was as good as his word. He pointed out Pope's tent in the camp where Union quartermaster and commissary officers were having a drink in their wa-

Teacher Talents Receiving Study

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

Many schools are experimenting with various methods of organizing instruction. They are looking for ways to make better use of teacher talent and permit more individualized instruction.

Although you as a parent may not be directly involved in the planning of your school's organization, you should understand some of the more popular plans with which educators are experimenting. There is a great deal of literature available on these subjects.

The dual progress plan, for instance, is a new demonstration in school organization.

The basic plan begins with the third grade. An individual student spends half of the school day with one teacher in a core area. He is taught social studies, language arts, reading, and physical education. This area is arranged according to normal grade level standards.

The other half of the school day is departmentalized (divided into scheduled periods). The student is taught math, science, music and art. If the school includes other subjects such as a foreign language shop, etc., they are placed in this area. These departmentalized groups are not arranged by grade level, but according to ability. Each class may include students from several grades.

The effect of this plan is to allow teachers to specialize in subjects of their greatest interest and talent. Students should receive instruction better suited to their needs.

Team teaching is common table talk for many educators. It is a school organization aimed at more efficient use of teacher time and talent. The plan started in the secondary school with many elementary schools adapting suitable variations.

Team teaching has existed in many educational situations. It is based on cooperation and may exist between two or more individuals. However, the present concept of team teaching refers to a somewhat specific type of cooperation. Naturally, many variations exist, but the fundamental organization remains. A team consists of several (approximately 4-5) teachers with different talents and interests. One highly experienced master teacher is appointed as team leader. The other members of the team are usually teachers with less experience, a student teacher, and possibly a team secretary. The team plans the total program for a group of students (about 25 per teacher).

This type of organization allows a great deal of flexibility. When advantageous, one teacher may lecture or demonstrate to the entire group which could number 100 or more. At other times, small groups are formed for the purpose of individualized instruction or discussion. This plan calls for a different type of school building although it has been introduced in existing structures. There is a need for large and small rooms possibly with movable walls.

These proposed plans are in contrast to the usual school program with which you are probably familiar. In the elementary school, we now have the self-contained classroom where one teacher is responsible for the total program of a single class. She generally has the help of some specialists. In the secondary school we are accustomed to total departmentalization. Each course is taught by a specialist teacher during a rigidly scheduled period.

Lunch Price Is Hiked By School Board

WINNSBORO (Special) — The Franklin Parish School Board accepted the resignation of the Crowville High School band director, raised the price of lunches and authorized the borrowing of money from the state at its regular monthly meeting Friday.

School Supt. M. D. Peel said two prospects have been interviewed for the band director job which was held by Betty Raborn, who has resigned.

School lunches were hiked from 13 cents to 15 cents for students and from 30 cents to 35 cents for adults, because, according to Peel, "the state legislature has cut the amount we receive from the state from 12 cents to nine cents per lunch. This year the meals will be served for one-cent less than last year even with the student paying two cents more."

Peel explained that last year students paid 13 cents and the state paid 12, or a total of 25 cents for the lunches, while this year the student will pay 15 and the state nine, or 24 cents, one cent less than last year.

The board authorized Peel to file a request with the State Tax and Bonding Commission to borrow $271,792.79 as authorized by Act Three of the 1962 Legislature, for the purpose of paying obligations of the board due in the 1961-62 session.

Peel said, "This is the amount now due Franklin Parish schools from the state and if we receive state money before Sept. 1, there will be no necessity to borrow."

Additional teachers approved by the board and the schools at which they will teach were: Patsy Louise Liles, Gilbert; Terry Knox, Winnsboro; Ernest Baccarini, Winnsboro; and Mrs. Jo Ann Williams, Gilbert. Sabbatical sick leave was granted Mrs. Annie Lee Clark. Franklin schools will open Sept. 4 with teachers meetings at 8:30 a.m. White teachers will meet at Winnsboro High and Negro teachers will meet at the Franklin Parish Training School. Classes begin Sept. 5.

Water Safety Demonstration Activity Cited

ST. JOSEPH (Special) — According to Raymond Doss, superintendent of Lake Bruin State Park, this locale was chosen for a recent water safety demonstration since it is the only place in the state where a water safety program is being carried on throughout the summer.

Active in the demonstration was the Louisiana State Highway Department, assisted by representatives from the State Red Cross Water Safety Council.

Stan Zbozen, formerly with the Red Cross Water Safety Council and now with the Highway Department, was in charge of the demonstration.

The program at the park is under the direction of George McConathy.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

THE FEMALE TOFER

Almost half the alcoholics in the United States are women. The majority can be helped provided they will admit their addiction and accept treatment. But this is easier said than done.

Dr. Sedgwick Mead, writing in the Medical Times, says most women deny they are drinkers, often vehemently. Some are able to conceal the habit from the husband and friends for many years, especially when they do their imbibing alone. Many get their priming while lunching "with the girls"; they sneak a snort or two before leaving the house, order two or three cocktails while waiting to eat, and indulge in serious drinking on returning home.

The husband gets suspicious when the liquor bills go up. He obviously is high, or the house is as messy as it was when he left in the morning. On the other hand, the condition may escape detection when he stops off to have a drink or two after leaving the office and has a few more with his wife after getting home.

This may explain why the women least suspected sometimes turn out to be alcoholics. They come from all walks of life and, according to Dr. Mead, might include a gentle gray-haired librarian or even a minister's wife.

But there are telltale signs that give them away, especially when they consult a physician for a related or unrelated problem. The hands tremble and the palms are slightly swollen and shiny red. These women tend to smoke incessantly and are likely to be pale and thin from undernourishment and anemia.

The modern female alcoholic is unlike her counterpart of a century ago. She was the buxom, hoydenish, fishwife type. Dr. Mead explains, with brandy blossoms on nose and cheeks.

Cirrhosis of the liver and heavy drinking go together like ham and eggs. But the old liver often can stage a comeback if the individual stops all forms of drinking. Many women ex-alcoholics live to a ripe old age after they take the pledge.

HAIR AND SPRAY

Mrs. J.M. writes: My 15-year-old daughter sprays her hair two or three times a day. If this is harmful to the lungs, why isn't the spray removed from the market?

REPLY

A few persons have been bothered but this is only a drop in the bucket, considering the millions who spray their hair. In addition, these few women used the spray many, many times a day, and all got well when they discontinued the chemical.

LEG RISINGS

J.L.T. writes: My friend has frequent painful risings on his leg. What causes them and how can he get rid of them?

REPLY

A painful swelling may stem from infections, tumors, parasites, bites, or injuries. Your friends ought to see a physician when the "rising" arises so that a firsthand diagnosis can be made.

U.S. Reports Retail Sales In July Spurt

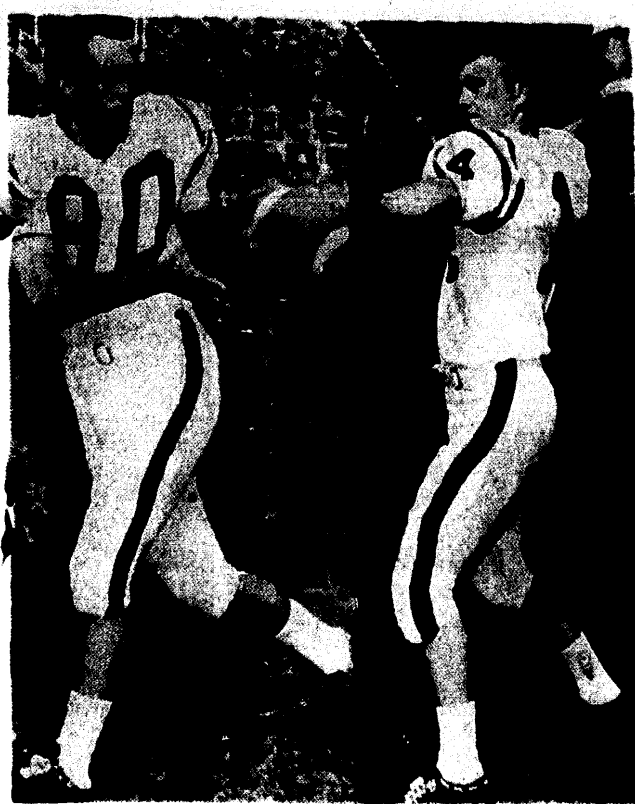

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Retail sales rose sharply in July, chiefly on the strength of brisk buying of new cars, the government reported Friday. It also said personal incomes increased moderately to another new high.

In a third report, the government said the average factory work week dropped more than usual last month, but still was at its highest July level since 1960.

The reports are among the business indicators which President Kennedy will have considered when he announces in a radio-television speech Monday night whether he thinks the economy needs the stimulus of a tax cut now. If he decides against an immediate reduction, he will seek one in January.

The gain in retail sales was better than expected. The Commerce Department said the July sales total of $19,451,000,000 was $19 million above the May level. Retail buying had dropped in June to $19.1 billion. An all-time high of $19.6 billion was posted last April.

A $1.3 billion increase in personal income to a yearly rate of $442 billion was $200 million below the May-June gain. But it was well below a record of $3 billion a month earlier this year. Most of the July gain came in wages and salaries, especially in construction where activity blossomed.

Miss Wright Retains Lead Despite Slip

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mickey Wright slipped to a one-over-par 73 Friday but still held the 36-hole lead with a 142 in the $7,500 Kansas City Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Jackie Pung, who tied Miss Wright at 69 for the opening day lead, faded badly in the hot, humid weather to a 10-over-par 82 and a 151 total.

The day's best round was played by Mary Lena Faulk of Sea Island, Ga. She covered the 6,000-yard Hillcrest Country Club course in 70 strokes—only sub-par round of the day—and one shot off the pace at 143.

In third place at 146 is little Muriel Lindstrom of Cape Girardeau, Mo., who had a 72.

Miss Wright struggled with a balky putter, three-putting two greens as she took five bogeys. She found the range on the closing holes, however, sinking a 10-footer for a par on 17 and a 12-footer for a birdie on 18.

MAIN COGS in a passing attack that was professionally efficient for Louisiana Tech last year were end Jerry Griffin (left) and quarterback Mickey Slaughter. Griffin, who was a Williamson All-American last fall, caught 45 passes for a school record and gained 435 yards from the receptions. Slaughter picked up 856 yards passing by completing 82 of 127 attempts. This gave him a .646 completion percentage, highest among small college passers in the nation. Both Griffin and Slaughter return this fall.

MAINLY IN THE LINE

Tech's '62 Success Depends On Frosh

(First in a series of three articles on Louisiana Tech's football prospects this fall. Today's is a look at the overall situation.)

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech's forward wall for many years has been manned by veterans, but during the 1962 season Coach Joe Aillet will have to depend on freshmen to shore up the defenses, and Tech's success will hinge on their performance.

Tech has had to resort to use of freshmen before, but it has always been in the backfield where they have come through with flying colors.

Aillet, who will be turning out his 22nd Tech machine, many of which were powerhouses, is not unduly concerned about a shortage of line depth. "We are delighted with our incoming freshmen linemen," Aillet said. "Elsewhere, things do not look too gloomy for the Bulldogs. The incomparable Mickey Slaughter, who must rate as one of the finest field generals and passers in the country, is back to trigger the attack. There is experience at fullback and halfback and a flock of promising sophomores at those spots.

The depth problem where frosh will have to help is in the interior of the line. The end posts are well staffed, but talent is short at guard, tackle, and center.

Aillet hopes for a better ground attack than a year ago with the flock of soph backs and he will be happy if his aerial attack can match that of last fall.

Tech's secondary defense has no fear, but a certain amount of respect for Patterson, who added he regarded Cleveland Williams, whom he conquered in the defensive play at some positions was not adequate last year and we do not intend starting this season with the same weaknesses," Aillet said.

Outstanding placekicker Bud Alexander has graduated, but sophomore Jerry Fairbanks has shown that he will be a good replacement.

One of the brightest spots is the kicking, which again will be handled by soph David Lee of Minden. Lee averaged 40 yards per kick last year.

Although Tech has 19 lettermen returning from a team that won five and lost four, 14 other monogram winners will be missing.

Cannon, Blanda Spark Oilers By Broncos, 33-17

ATLANTA (AP)—Brilliant Billy Cannon treated a crowd of 11,500 fans to a dazzling 29-yard touchdown run Friday night, but it was old George Blanda who kicked the winning field goal to lead the Houston Oilers to a 33-17 American Football League exhibition victory.

The veteran Blanda tied four field goals and converted three times for high-point honors in the display of offensive fireworks.

It was the second AFL exhibition here, where promoters of newly-erected America Field hope to lure a franchise in the pro league. The crowd exceeded the first night turnout by about 3,500, but admission prices were cut sharply for the game which had the added lure of Cannon and his NFL defending champions.

Denver, looking much sharper than last year's woeful entry, took a 13-13 halftime lead when Frank Tripucka's passes set up a pair of touchdowns. Tripucka threw two yards to Bo Dickinson for the first Broncos score, and Don Stone plunged two yards for the one. Gene Mingo, whose 25-yard field goal accounted for the lone Denver score in the second half, added both conversions to give the Broncos their lead.

Cannon, Heisman Trophy winner as an All-American at Louisiana State, put the Oilers ahead to stay with his touchdown run early in the third quarter. He skirted his own left end, bounced off two would-be tacklers and sprinted down the sideline for the go-ahead points.

New Orleans Beats Shreveport, 11-0

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tulane blanked Shreveport 11-0 Friday night to win the state American Legion title and a trip to the regional playoffs in Helena, Ark.

Big Henry Winters went the route and held the visitors to five scattered hits. Only four runners got as far as second base.

Winters pitched when New Orleans won the opening game of the best-of-3 playoff 4-3 in Shreveport Tuesday. The Shreveporters evened the series with a 3-2 victory here Thursday night.

The regionals start Aug. 16.

Nearly 25 per cent of the pa-would-be tacklers and sprinted down the sideline for the go-ahead points.

National Tennis Hall Of Fame Admits 3 Stars

NEWPORT R.I. (AP)—Three noted tennis stars of the 1930's—Ellsworth Vines, Johnny Doeg and Helen Hull Jacobs—were named to the National Tennis Hall of Fame Friday.

All three will be present at induction ceremonies on Aug. 18, as part of Newport Tennis Week. The ceremonies will take place at the Newport Casino, where the U.S. National Championships were played from their inception in 1881 through 1914.

Vines, Doeg and Miss Jacobs were stars in the 1930-35 period, which the hall of fame directors considered this year.

Vines was national singles champion in 1931 and 1932, adding the Wimbledon crown the latter year. He turned professional in 1933, and later was a successful pro golfer. Vines now lives in Palm Springs, Calif.

Doeg beat Bill Tilden in the semifinals and Francis X. Shields in the final of the Nationals in 1930 and lives in Colma, Calif.

Helen Jacobs was national champion four times and Wimbledon champion in 1936. From 1927 to 1941, she was at or near the top of the national rankings almost every year. She now lives in New York.

Chester Reaches Teener Finals On Interference

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—An interference penalty gave Chester, Pa., a 1-0 victory Friday over Tucson, Ariz., in a third-round game of the VFW Teener Baseball World Series. But Tucson eliminated Panama in another afternoon game, 8-1.

Chester's George Hamby scored the winning run in the ninth inning when interference was called against Tucson catcher Alex Marquez when he stepped in front of batter John Edwards.

The game went two extra innings after play was started with Tucson at bat with one out in the fifth. The game had been suspended at that point Thursday by heavy rains.

It was Tucson's first loss in the double elimination tournament.

Pitcher Dan Majia went all the way in the second game, giving up only two hits and losing his shutout in the last inning.

Tucson had been scheduled to meet defending champion Gastonia, N.C., in a night game, but it was cancelled because of rain and will be played Saturday morning. The winner will meet Chester later in the day in the title game.

Graves Says Gators Improved This Year

(This is the ninth in a series of football forecasts on teams in the Southeastern Conference.)

By VERNON BUTLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

Florida finished below .500 last football season and learned the bitter lesson that you don't have a good team without a good line.

The forewarned was whipped soundly in the big games, and Southeastern Conference rivals Louisiana State, Georgia Tech and Auburn scored decisive victories. Florida State tied the Gators and old rival Miami beat them. It was a galling season for an outfit that astonished fans with an 8-2 record the year before and a Gator Bowl victory over Baylor. Victories over Clemson, Tulane, Vanderbilt and Georgia did little to make the autumn any happier for Florida boosters.

This year Coach Ray Graves predicts a turnaround with great confidence.

"We lost 10 key men last year by injury or ineligibility," Graves said, "and we never recovered. This year we have experience and depth at every position. We will be much better because of this."

Florida hit the road five times last year. This year only two games, Mississippi State and LSU, are scheduled outside the state. The others will be played at Gainesville, Jacksonville or Miami. Mississippi State, Duke and Texas A&M replay Tulane, Clemson and Rice on the Gator card. According to Graves, Florida will be as good as end in the backfield as the 1961 Gator edition. These were the 1961 strong positions.

"At tackle, guard and center, places where we were hurting most last season, we expect to be much stronger. Because of our added depth, we will be able to go to a three-team system and use offensive and defensive specialists behind our first team," Graves said.

Gerald Odum and Jack Katz,

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Mike Fracchia, Alabama's finest running fullback, has re-injured his troublesome left knee.

The accident, during a simple game of run-and-catch Thursday, cast a gloom over the football fortunes of the nation's 1961 top-ranked college football team.

Only one other letterman is listed at fullback—Eddie Ver-sprille, a junior from Norfolk, Va. Fracchia was taken to a physician in Birmingham Friday. A doctor's report, expected over the weekend, may determine whether the 165-pound senior can take to the football field this fall.

ineligible last season, have won starting berths at tackle and guard, respectively, and Frank Laaky, a 280-pounder who has recovered from scholastic ailment has returned to challenge veteran Anton Peters for the tackle spot opposite Odum. Katz will team with Larry Travis, a guard with badly last year when injuries plagued him and the line let the defenders through. He looked sharp in spring practice, and will share the quarterback post with passing ace Tom Batten. Bobby Dodd and Ron Stoner are defensive specialists.

Bob Hoover and sophomore Jerry Newcomer look like the best bets for halfback roles on the offensive team with Hagood Clarke a defensive standby.

Tom Kelley, a sophomore end and a junior center, has switched his versatile talents to fullback. Pushing Kelley are Jim O'Donnell and sophomore Larry Dupree, the latter a star of spring drills. Backfield specialists include Bruce Starling (safety man), sophomore Ron Purcell (linebacker) and Dave Bludworth (punter).

With so many wild cats, Graves & Co. figure to have a much stronger hand in their 1962 games.

all-SEC potential, on either side of 205-pound co-captain Bruce Culpepper, described by Graves as one of his most improved linemen.

Russ Brown and Sam Holland are the starting ends with Tom Gregory and place-kicker Bill Cash manning the defensive terminals. Ex-tackle Floyd Dean, a 245-pound sprinter, will be an offensive end in company with sophomore Larry Hess.

Fred Pearson and sophomore sensation Dennis Murphy have strangleholds on the defensive tackle posts with the huge Laaky and 232-pound John Dent the likely offensive tackles. Wade Entz-minger and Bill Richbourg earned the defensive guard posts in spring practice, and the offensive guards went to Jack Thompson and John Oliva. Richbourg is a sophomore. Russ Staples and sophomore Jim Bernhart will reinforce Culpepper at center.

With better blocking up front, Florida's stable of backfield aces should find considerably more running room in 1962. Fullback Dick Skelly, forced to sit out the 1961 campaign for wrestling with the team's alligator mascot, will team with co-captain Landy Infante to give the Gators a tandem equal to any in the SEC. Skelly, a power runner of the Billy Cannon type, can be just as good as he wants to be, Florida coaches say. Infante, who tallied 42 points last season, is an all-purpose back described as underrated by his coaches.

Larry Libertore, a 138-pound sensation as a sophomore, shipped

PRO FOOTBALL Pre-Season Action Picking Up Today

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rookies, some with glittering reputations and others unheralded but hopeful, will continue their fight for jobs and fame in pro football as the pre-season action picks up steam this weekend.

Twelve National Football League clubs will open their exhibition schedules today. Minnesota plays San Francisco in a day game at the Seattle World's Fair. In night games, New York meets St. Louis at the site of the new National Football League Hall of Fame at Canton, Ohio; Cleveland is at Detroit; Baltimore faces Philadelphia at Hershey, Pa.; Chicago takes on Pittsburgh at Atlanta, and Washington plays at Los Angeles.

In the American Football League—Dallas has a night game Saturday with the Chargers at San Diego, Boston and Oakland play Saturday afternoon at Providence, and there will be a Sunday match between New York and Buffalo at New Haven, Conn. Minnesota Vikings may wind up with two rookies at offensive end, Tom Stonebreaker and Tom Adams. The Vikings also have rookie Pat Russ and linebacker Ray Winston as newcomers to test against the 49ers.

The Cardinals are trying out a flock of rookies, including interior lineman Fate Echols and Irv Goode plus Wilburn Hollis, former guard quarterback at Iowa who will be a running back as a pro. Guard Bookie Standout. Cleveland lost All-American halfback Ernie Davis through illness, but counts on Gary Collins to do the punting and play some offense. The Lions also have a rookie end in Tom Hall.

Wendell Harris is slated for defensive backfield duty for the Colts against the Eagles, who have a potential flyaway runner in sprint champion Frank Budd. Among the Bears' rookie prizes are running back Ron Bull and defensive back Tommy Neck, while the Steelers boast one of the best of the best sport that each day has to offer.

Begin these times as shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The minor periods first listed for morning and afternoon, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Graves Says Gators Improved This Year

(This is the ninth in a series of football forecasts on teams in the Southeastern Conference.)

By VERNON BUTLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Florida finished below .500 last football season and learned the bitter lesson that you don't have a good team without a good line.

The forewall was whipped south in the big games, and Southeastern Conference rivals Louisiana State, Georgia Tech and Auburn scored decisive victories. Florida State tied the Gators and old rival Miami beat them. It was a galling season for an outfit that astonished fans with an 8-2 record the year before and a Gator Bowl victory over Baylor. Victories over Clemson, Tulane, Vanderbilt and Georgia did little to make the autumn any happier for Florida boosters.

This year Coach Ray Graves predicts a turnaround with great confidence.

"We lost 10 key men last year by injury or ineligibility," Graves said, "and we never recovered. This year we have experience and depth at every position. We will be much better because of this."

Florida hit the road five times last year. This year only two games, Mississippi State and LSU, are scheduled outside the state. The others will be played at Gainesville, Jacksonville or Miami. Mississippi State, Duke and Texas A&M replay Tulane, Clemson and Rice on the Gator card.

According to Graves, Florida will be as good as at end and in the backfield as the 1961 Gator edition. These were the 1961 strong positions.

"At tackle, guard and center, places where we were hurting most last season, we expect to be much stronger. Because of our added depth, we will be able to go to a three-team system and use offensive and defensive specialists behind our first team," Graves said.

Gerald Odum and Jack Katz, Fred Pearson and sophomore sensation Dennis Murphy have strangleholds on the defensive tackle posts with the huge Lasky and 232-pound John Dent the likely offensive tackles. Wade Entz and 232-pound John Dent the likely offensive tackles. Wade Entz and 232-pound John Dent the likely offensive tackles. Wade Entz and 232-pound John Dent the likely offensive tackles.

With better blocking up front, Florida's stable of backfield cats should find considerably more running room in 1962. Halfback Dick Skelly, forced to sit out the 1961 campaign for wrestling with the team's alligator mascot, will team with co-captain Lindy Infante to give the Gators a tandem equal to any in the SEC. Skelly, a power runner of the Billy Cannon type, can be just as good as he wants to be, Florida coaches say. Infante, who tallied 42 points last season, is an all-purpose back described as underrated by his coaches.

Larry Libertore, a 138-pound sensation as a sophomore, slipped last year when injuries plagued him and the line let the defenders through. He looked sharp in spring practice, and will share the quarterback post with passing ace Tom Batten. Bobby Dodd and Ron Stoner are defensive specialists.

Bob Hoover and sophomore Jerry Newcomer look like the best bets for halfback roles on the offensive team with Hagood Clarke a defensive standby.

Tom Kelley, a sophomore end and a junior center, has switched his versatile talents to fullback. Pushing Kelley are Jim O'Donnell and sophomore Larry Dupree, the latter a star of spring drills. Backfield specialists include Bruce Starling (safety man), sophomore Ron Purcell (linebacker) and Dave Bludworth (punter).

With so many wild cats, Graves & Co. figure to hold a much stronger hand in their 1962 games.

Russ Brown and Sam Holland are the starting ends with Tom Gregory and place-kicker Bill Cash manning the defensive terminals. Ex-tackle Floyd Dean, a 245-pound sprinter, will be an offensive end in company with sophomore Larry Hess.

Chester Reaches Teener Finals On Interference

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—An interference penalty gave Chester, Pa., a 1-0 victory Friday over Tucson, Ariz., in a third-round game of the VFW Tenner Baseball World Series. But Tucson eliminated Panama in another afternoon game, 8-1.

Chester's George Hamby scored the winning run in the ninth inning when interference was called against Tucson catcher Alex Marquez when he stepped in front of batter John Edwards.

The game went two extra innings after play was started with Tucson at bat with one out in the fifth. The game had been suspended at that point Thursday by heavy rains.

It was Tucson's first loss in the double elimination tournament. Pitcher Dan Majia went all the way in the second game, giving up only two hits and losing his shutout in the last inning.

Tucson had been scheduled to meet defending champion Gastonia, N.C., in a night game, but it was cancelled because of rain and will be played Saturday morning. The winner will meet Chester later in the day in the title game.

Tech's '62 Success Depends On Frosh

(First in a series of three articles on Louisiana Tech's football prospects this fall. Today's is a look at the overall situation.)

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech's forward wall for many years has been manned by veterans, but during the 1962 season Coach Joe Aillet will have to depend on freshmen to shore up the defenses, and Tech's success will hinge on their performances.

Tech has had to resort to use of freshmen before, but it has always been in the backfield where they have come through with flying colors.

Aillet, who will be turning out his 22nd Tech machine, many of which were powerhouses, is not unduly concerned about a shortage of line depth. "We are delighted with our incoming freshmen linemen," Aillet said.

Elsewhere, things do not look too gloomy for the Bulldogs. The incomparable Mickey Slaughter, who must rate as one of the finest field generals and passers in the country, is back to trigger the attack. There is experience at fullback and halfback and a flock of promising sophomores at those spots.

The depth problem where frosh will have to help is in the interior of the line. The end posts are well staffed, but talent is short at guard, tackle, and center.

Aillet hopes for a better ground attack than a year ago with the flock of soph backs and he will be happy if his aerial attack can match that of last fall.

Tech's secondary defense proved porous at times last year and he hopes that situation can be rectified. "We realize that the defensive play at some positions was not adequate last year and we do not intend starting this season with the same weaknesses," Aillet said.

Outstanding placekicker Bud Alexander has graduated, but sophomore Jerry Fairbanks has shown that he will be a good replacement.

One of the brightest spots is the kicking, which again will be handled by soph David Lee of Minden. Lee averaged 40 yards per kick last year.

Although Tech has 19 lettermen returning from a team that won five and lost four, 14 other monogram winners will be missing.

Atlanta (AP)—Brilliant Billy Cannon treated a crowd of 11,500 fans to a dazzling 29-yard touchdown run Friday night, but it was old George Blanda who kicked the stuffing out of the Denver Broncos and booted the Houston Oilers to a 23-17 American Football League exhibition victory.

The veteran Blanda toed four field goals and converted three times for high-point honors in the display of offensive fireworks.

It was the second AFL exhibition here, where promoters of newly-erected America Field hope to lure a franchise in the pro league. The crowd exceeded the first night turnout by about 3,500, but admission prices were cut sharply for the game which had the added lure of Cannon and his defending champions.

Denver, looking much sharper than last year's woeful entry, took a 14-13 halftime lead when Frank Truica's passes set up a pair of touchdowns. Tripucka threw two yards to Bo Dickinson for the first Bronco score, and Don Stone plunged two yards for the other. Gene Mingo, whose 25-yard field goal accounted for the lone Denver score in the second half, added both conversions to give the Broncos their lead.

Cannon, Heisman Trophy winner as an All-American at Louisiana State, put the Oilers ahead to stay with his touchdown run early in the third quarter. He skirted his own left end, bounced off two would-be tacklers and sprinted down the sideline for the go-ahead points.

Challenger Sure He's Plenty Fast To Meet Champ

CHICAGO (Special) — Challenger Sonny Liston stoically brushed off inference Friday night his lack of speed would hurt him against heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in their Sept. 25 title bout here.

Liston, here for Saturday's Bud Billiken celebration on Chicago's south side, was reminded at a news conference that Ingemar Johansson recently depicted Liston as too slow for Patterson.

"Johansson was pretty slow himself against Patterson," countered Liston. "They used to say Joe Louis was slow, but he always turned out faster than the guys he fought."

"If I hit him (Patterson) hard enough to knock him down, he won't get up like he did against Johansson. It's going to be a short fight—maybe ending within five rounds."

Liston, currently training at South Fallsburg,

Pilot Injured In Area Crash

RAYVILLE, Special.—The pilot of a crop duster plane suffered two broken ribs when his flying machine crashed about three miles south of Start on the O. B. Mitchell farm Friday, according to the Richland Parish Sheriff's department.

Authorities said Ike J. Collins, 29, formerly of Rolling Fork, Miss., and now of Rayville, was injured when his plane crashed up after the tail section was caught by a telephone wire.

Collins, who was dusting cotton, had attempted to fly under the telephone wires, officials said.

A single strand of wire caught the plane and forced it down, causing major damage to the machine, authorities said.

The accident occurred about 7:30 a.m. The plane is owned by Richland Aviation Service, Inc. of Rayville.

Ethel Kennedy Falls In Creek At Plush Camp

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (AP)—Ethel Kennedy fell in a creek and the park superintendent was thrown from a horse but otherwise everyone was having a fine time Friday at the Kennedy Douglass luxury camp in Olympic National Park.

Vacationing Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and their party were "roughing it" in a setup so elaborate that one packer called it "the Olympic Hilton."

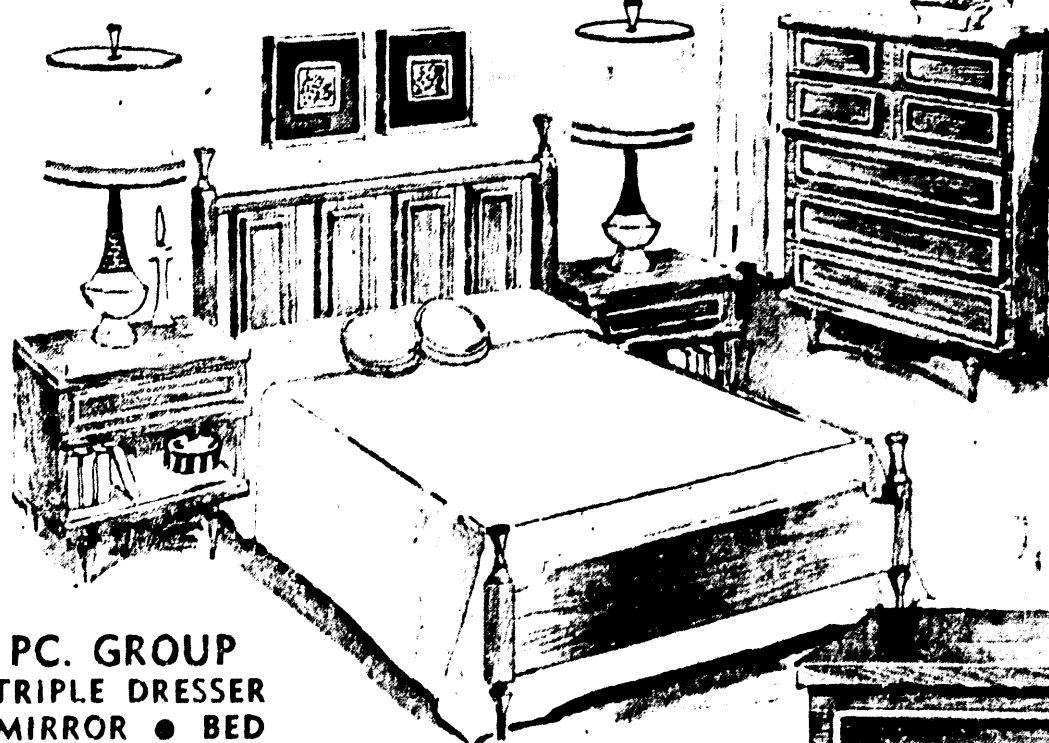

Kennedy, Douglas, their wives and party including four Kennedy children went in 11½ miles Thursday with a 24-horse expedition. They camped at Elkhorn, on the Elwha River in the Olympic park area often called "the last frontier." The camp included such civilized details as a 40-foot mess tent, warming stoves in individual tents and portable lavatories with mounded seats.

The start from the road end at Whiskey Bend was marred when John Doerr, Olympic Park superintendent, fell from a horse and broke his collar bone.

Disdaining a wide footbridge, most of the group tried to cross a swift creek on a broken, slippery log. That was where Kennedy's wife, Ethel, fell in. She was soaked but smiling.

Kennedy and Douglas, who hiked into Elkhorn while most of the party rode, took the safe foot bridge route.

Pilot Injured In Area Crash

RAYVILLE (Special) — The pilot of a crop-duster plane suffered two broken ribs when his flying machine crashed about three miles south of Start on the O. B. Mitchell farm Friday, according to the Richland Parish sheriff's department.

Authorities said Ike J. Collins, 29, formerly of Rolling Fork, Miss., and now of Rayville, was injured when his plane cracked up after the tail section was caught by a telephone wire.

Collins, who was dusting cotton, had attempted to fly under the telephone wires, officials said. A single strand of wire caught the plane and forced it down, causing major damage to the machine, authorities said.

The accident occurred about 7:30 a.m. The plane is owned by Richland Aviation Service, Inc., of Rayville.

Ethel Kennedy Falls In Creek At Plush Camp

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (AP) — Ethel Kennedy fell in a creek and the park superintendent was thrown from a horse but otherwise everyone was having a fine time Friday at the Kennedy-Douglas luxury camp in Olympic National Park.

Vacationing Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and their party were "roughing it" in a setup called the Olympic Hilton.

Kennedy, Douglas, their wives and party including four Kennedy children went in 11 1/2 miles Thursday with a 24-horse expedition.

They camped at Elkhorn, on the Elwha River, in the Olympic park area often called "the last frontier." The camp included such civilized details as a 40-foot mess tent, warming stoves in individual tents and portable lavatories with moulded seats.

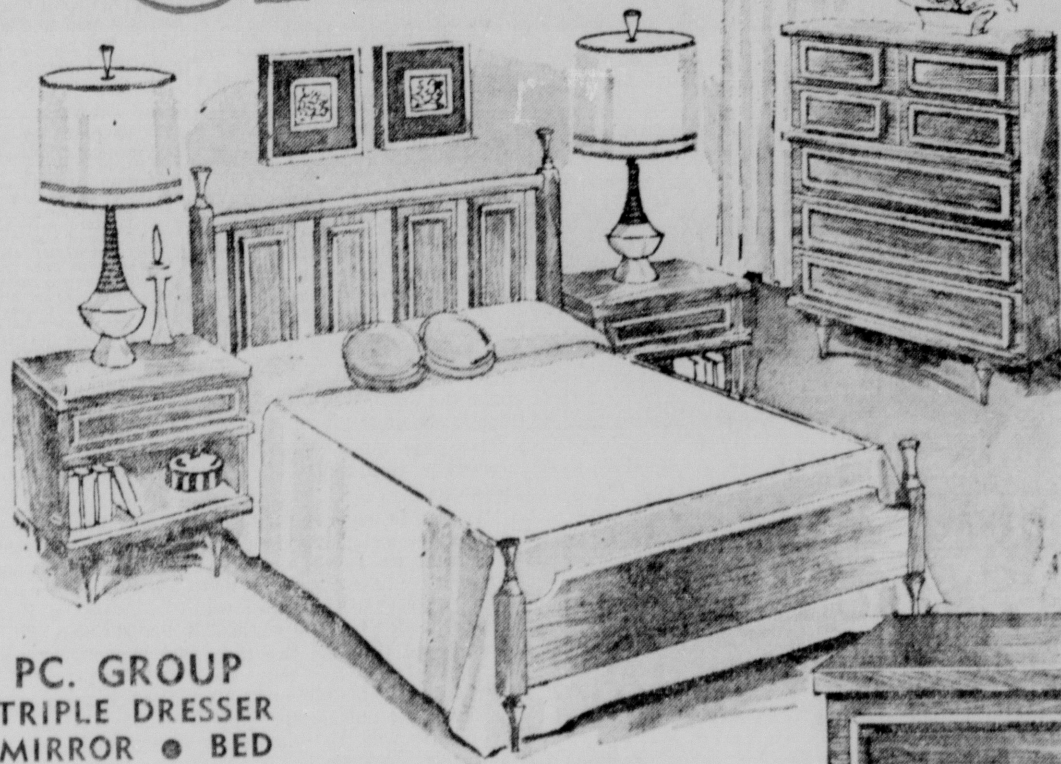

The start from the road end at Whiskey Bend was marred when John Doerr, Olympic Park superintendent, fell from a horse and broke his collar bone.

Disdaining a wide footbridge, most of the group tried to cross a swift creek on a broken, slippery log. That was where Kennedy's wife, Ethel, fell in. She was soaked but smiling.

Kennedy and Douglas, who hiked into Elkhorn while most of the party rode, took the safe foot-bridge route.

KIDDLIE LAND

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What can I do about a husband who is always the last one to leave a party? After a few drinks he tunes me out completely and I might as well talk to the wall.

It is very embarrassing when the host and hostess begin to empty ashtrays and carry the glasses into the kitchen. Last week the hostess simply said, "You'll have to excuse me, I'm exhausted and I'm going to bed." My husband replied, "That's all right, I'll stay awhile and talk to Jim." It was an hour later when I finally got him to go home.

Often this happens on a Sunday night and the next day I can't get my head off the pillow to go to work, and neither can he. Is there a solution short of hitting him over the head with a club and dragging him out?

MRS. HANGER-ON: Enlist the help of the host and hostess. Tell them of your problem in advance and ask them to walk your husband to the door when you suggest leaving. Incidentally, for all people who think their company is irresistible, it's axiomatic that the bores leave last.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter from the husband who complained because his wife wouldn't take a vacation with him—she was too busy with her flower garden and 193 potted plants. His wife sounded like me four years ago, only I didn't have plants. My excuse was three dogs, seven cats, a cage full of canaries and a couple of tanks of tropical fish. My husband put it to me plain. He said, "If this menagerie means more to you than I do then we don't have much of a marriage. I'm going on a vacation, with or without you, and you have until Sunday to let me know."

His words cut me like a knife. I cried for two solid hours. Then suddenly it dawned on me that he was right. What could be more belittling to a man than to be told that pets were more important than he was?

I realized I'd been behaving like a child. That very day I made arrangements with the local vet to take all the animals off my hands for two weeks and I took the fish over to my mother-in-law. I've been a grown-up wife ever since. I hope the plant lady takes your advice, Ann, and smartens up before she loses a good man. — EX-DUMB BUNNY

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HINTS FROM Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

The other day I decided to clean up my laundry room. I had just looked at the shelves above, with half-empty boxes, wet boxes, soiled boxes and different colored boxes!

I had saved a bunch of empty salt boxes, the ones with the little pouring spout on the side. I covered these with contact paper (foil could be used). The foil or plastic type paper will keep the box from getting dirty or soiled. This also keeps the box itself from absorbing water.

I then took my old bottle of fingernail polish and labeled the side of each box bleach, detergent, etc. I now find my laundry room is such a pleasure to work in and so clean that I actually "fill" down the stairs each morning to do my laundry.

One good thing about salt boxes, is that the tops can be removed easily for replacements. Most things except laundry powder will fit into a one pound salt box.

I keep the big box of soap or detergent underneath my shelf so it won't look cluttered.

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What can I do about a husband who is always the last one to leave a party? After a few drinks he tunes me out completely and I might as well talk to the wall.

It is very embarrassing when the host and hostess begin to empty ashtrays and carry the glasses into the kitchen. Last week the hostess simply said, "You'll have to excuse me, I'm exhausted and I'm going to bed." My husband replied, "That's all right, I'll stay awhile and talk to Jim." It was an hour later when I finally got him to go home.

Often this happens on a Sunday night and the next day I can't get my head off the pillow to go to work, and neither can he. Is there a solution short of hitting him over the head with a club and dragging him out?

MRS. HANGER-ON: Enlist the help of the host and hostess. Tell them of your problem in advance and ask them to walk your husband to the door when you suggest leaving. Incidentally, for all people who think their company is irresistible, it's axiomatic that the bores leave last.

of canaries and a couple of tanks of tropical fish. My husband put it to me plain. He said, "If this menagerie means more to you than I do then we don't have much of a marriage. I'm going on a vacation, with or without you, and you have until Sunday to let me know."

His words cut me like a knife. I cried for two solid hours. Then suddenly it dawned on me that he was right. What could be more belittling to a man than to be told that pets were more important than he was?

I realized I'd been behaving like a child. That very day I made arrangements with the local vet to take all the animals off my hands for two weeks and I took the fish over to my mother's. I've been a grown-up wife ever since. I hope the plant lady takes your advice, Ann, and smartens up before she loses a good man. — EX-DUMB BUNNY.

The bride's table was centered with a memory candle entwined with ivy and mums.
Miss Netherland's attire for the occasion was a white jersey ensemble with multi-colored accessories. She was presented a miniature silver jewelry box by the hostesses.

Guests were served from the refreshment table, overlaid with an Egyptian lace tablecloth. Those invited to share the party with Miss Netherland were Mrs. J. H. Netherland, mother of the honoree, Mrs. Holmes Parker, Mrs. Jane Rice, Misses Marilyn Hewitt, Joanne Hughes, Bidie Dupree, Sylvia Hayden, Beverly Payne, Billie Tarver, Rose Mary White, Ila Kay and Pat Guadery, Jane Ann and Donna Parker, and Melba Beasley.

U.S. Judge Bars Railroad Firings

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge blocked the firing of thousands of workers on the nation's railroads Friday pending a final court ruling on the legality of the drastic economy.

The 2 1/2-year economy drive by management to reclassify jobs and tighten work rules of 210,000 train crewmen had been set for next Thursday. Five unions representing the men were ready to order a nationwide walkout.

Friday's U.S. District Court action technically granted the unions a court order barring the railroads from applying new work rules pending a union appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Railroad lawyers announced plans for an immediate appeals court challenge of the injunction.

The railroad brotherhoods are appealing the lower court ruling of last Monday by U.S. District Judge Joseph Sam Perry that the railroads may legally apply the rules, including elimination of 40,000 yard and freight service diesel firemen.

The railroads had scheduled a program limiting the out-of-hand dismissals to 13,000 and keeping the other 27,000 firemen pending death or retirement, cancelling their jobs as they left service.

Vulnerability of the milder plan to the unions' court attack led to a shift by the carriers to the more drastic program, announced Nov. 2, 1959, because it had sounder legal basis.

However, the railroads have geared to the more gradual dissolving under terms suggested by a presidential study commission. This, however, will lead to the abolishment of 65,000 jobs during the next five years.

During a three-day hearing on the injunction move, the railroads' spokesman, J. E. Wolfe of Chicago, told the court that payment for needless work is costing the carriers nearly $600 million a year.

Witnesses for the unions, which contend the railroads want to skimp on work needed in the interests of safety, termed the proposed rules contradictory and said they would bring chaos in determination of pay for employees.

Wolfe, who is head of the railroads' national bargaining committee, and Howard Neisser, chief attorney for the carriers, said the employers decided to force the fight into the higher court quickly because "We hope that because of the existing situation we can get the appeals court to vacate the restraining order to prevent any delay in bringing the matter to a conclusion."

"If it is vacated, we are convinced that President Kennedy will create an emergency board."

Naming of an emergency board by the President would automatically freeze current working conditions and bar any rail strike for 90 days. Nevertheless, it would bring a final showdown in the long struggle closer.

An emergency board created under the Railway Labor Act would prescribe a settlement formula; it would seek to clarify the issues. Presumably, such clarification would serve to expedite further bargaining by railroads and unions.

The current dispute does not affect directly some 500,000 so-called nonoperating rail employees who completed new one-year agreements with the carriers earlier this year.

In granting the injunction to the operating unions Friday, Judge Perry said, "I have preserved and protected the right of appeal," adding he felt an interim decision affecting both jobs and capital must be resolved "in favor of jobs and men."

Judge Perry observed, however, "I am sure that modernization of the railroad industry will occur. It is necessary and will come about."

Hoover Says U.N. Failure, Urges Free World Council

WEST BRANCH, Iowa (AP)—Herbert Hoover, declaring "today we have no peace," urged that free nations willing to fight for their freedom bind together in council to preserve world peace.

As the former president proposed establishment of what he called a "council of free nations," little boys within earshot of his words quickly tossed pebbles into a brook.

Hoover himself once played in the same creek, the Wapsinonoc, which meanders through the 28-acre park where stands the cottage in which he was born, the son of a blacksmith, 88 years ago Friday.

Another former president, Harry S. Truman, and a crowd of about 25,000 persons applauded Hoover's proposal, made, as he noted, "as the shadows gather around me."

The occasion was to celebrate Hoover's birthday and to dedicate the Hoover Presidential Library. Bright sunlight and gentle breezes bathed this picturesque eastern Iowa community.

Such a council of free nations, Hoover said, should supplement, rather than replace, the United Nations, stepping in "when the United Nations is prevented from taking action, or if it fails to act to preserve peace."

He said Communist nations are "the disintegrating forces in the United Nations," adding: "We must realize that the United Nations has failed to give us even a remote hope of lasting peace. Instead, it adds to the dangers of wars which now surround us."

"During my long years, I have participated in many world negotiations, which we hoped would promote peace."

"Today we have no peace."

He said Presidents Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy have urged more unity among free nations.

"The time is here when, if the free nations are to survive, they must have a new and stronger worldwide organization," Hoover said.

A council of free nations "should include only those who are willing to stand up and fight in their freedom. Some organized crisis last year. NATO Nations Okay Missile PARIS (UPI)—Five North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) nations have agreed to join in production of the "Bullpup" weapons" system in Europe, NATO headquarters announced Friday.

They are the United States, Great Britain, Denmark, Norway and Turkey.

The Bullpup missile is an air-to-surface weapon of high accuracy which considerably increases the effectiveness of fighter-bomber aircraft. It has been operational for some time as part of U.S. Air Force and Navy armament in the European theater.

NATO headquarters described it as one of the alliance's most reliable weapons and said its introduction into the arsenals of NATO nations will considerably strengthen the air defense of Western Europe.

The spreading doubts seem to Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor will suc- ceed him.

The question remaining in Eu- rope is whether the Kennedy administration and the European leaders at the center of much of the difficulty and misunderstanding. To Euro- peans, the United States appears to have taken a rather up-stage attitude on the nuclear weapon, arguing in a "Father Knows Best" vein.

It now would seem that the picture painted at the Athens meet- ing of NATO foreign and defense ministers in May — a picture painted entirely by an anonymous U.S. public relations official — was on the rosy side. It held that Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara had given the Europeans such staggering amounts of in- formation on American nuclear strength and ability to care for Europe's defense that everyone went away quite contented.

Recent reports from Europe, following a major speech by McNamara in Ann Arbor, Mich., and Washington's announcement of the military shakeup in NATO, indicate the contrary.

PENDING FINAL RULING

U.S. Judge Bars Railroad Firings

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge blocked the firing of thousands of workers on the nation's railroads Friday pending a final court ruling on the legality of the drastic economy.

The 2½-year economy drive by management to reclassify jobs and tighten work rules of 210,000 train crewmen had been set for next Thursday. Five unions representing the men were ready to order a nationwide walkout.

Friday's U.S. District Court action technically granted the unions a court order barring the railroads from applying new work rules pending a union appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Railroad lawyers announced plans for an immediate appeals court challenge of the injunction.

The railroad brotherhoods are appealing the lower court ruling of last Monday by U.S. Dist. Judge Joseph Sam Perry that the railroads may legally apply the rules, including elimination of 40,000 yard and freight service diesel firemen.

The railroads had scheduled a program limiting the out-of-hand dismissals to 13,000 and keeping the other 27,000 firemen pending death or retirement, cancelling their jobs as they left service.

Vulnerability of the milder plan to a shift by the carriers to the more drastic program, announced Nov. 2, 1959, because it had sounder legal basis.

However, the railroads have geared to the more gradual job-dissolving under terms suggested by a presidential study commission. This, however, will lead to

NATO DEFENSE

Strategy Of U.S. Confusing Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dispatches from Europe indicate growing anxiety and confusion over American views on defense strategy for the NATO area.

The spreading doubts seem to be not unlike those that troubled European leaders at the outset of the Kennedy administration and in the early stages of the Berlin crisis last year. These doubts and anxieties are being expressed at a time when the NATO military high command is on the eve of a shakeup which needs fuller explanation than it has had, and when a new Berlin crisis may be in the offing.

The nuclear weapon lies at the center of much of the difficulty and misunderstanding. To Europeans, the United States appears to have taken a rather up-stage attitude on the nuclear weapon, arguing in a "Father Knows Best" vein.

It now would seem that the picture painted at the Athens meeting of NATO foreign and defense ministers in May — a picture painted entirely by an anonymous U.S. public relations official — was on the rosy side. It held that Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara had given the Europeans such staggering amounts of information on American nuclear strength and ability to care for Europe's defense that everyone went away quite contented.

Recent reports from Europe, following a major speech by McNamara in Ann Arbor, Mich., and Washington's announcement of the military shakeup in NATO, indicate the contrary.

Hoover Says U.N. Failure, Urges Free World Council

WEST BRANCH, Iowa (AP)—Herbert Hoover, declaring "today we have no peace," urged that free nations willing to fight for their freedom bind together in council to preserve world peace.

As the former president proposed establishment of what he called a "council of free nations," little boys within earshot of his words quietly tossed pebbles into a brook.

Hoover himself once played in the same creek, the Wapsinonoc, which meanders through the 28-acre park where stands the cottage in which he was born, the son of a blacksmith, 88 years ago Friday.

Another former president, Harry S. Truman, and a crowd of about 25,000 persons applauded Hoover's proposal, made, as he noted, "as the shadows gather around me."

The occasion was to celebrate Hoover's birthday and to dedicate the Hoover Presidential Library. Bright sunlight and gentle breezes bathed this picturesque eastern Iowa community.

Such a council of free nations, Hoover said, should supplement, rather than replace, the United Nations, stepping in "when the United Nations is prevented from taking action, or if it fails to act to preserve peace."

He said Communist nations are "the disintegrating forces in the United Nations," adding: "We must realize that the United Nations has failed to give us even a remote hope of lasting peace. Instead, it adds to the dangers of wars which now surround us."

"During my long years, I have participated in many world negotiations, which we hoped would promote peace."

"Today we have no peace." He said Presidents Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy have urged more unity among free nations.

"The time is here when, if the free nations are to survive, they must have a new and stronger worldwide organization," Hoover said.

A council of free nations "should include only those who are willing to stand up and fight for their freedom. Some organized council of free nations is the remaining hope for peace in the world."

Truman made no specific comment about Hoover's proposal. But he told Hoover's son, Herbert Jr., "Didn't your dad give a good speech. It hit me right where I live."

Truman said that as president, Hoover bore "the greatest responsibility in the world."

And, he added, "Nobody knows better than I do, and I have had one hell of a time with it."

Friday's ceremony came five years after Hoover helped dedicate the Truman Library at Independence, Mo.

Truman pointed to Hoover's years of public service, noted that at 88 he continues to work, and asked: "What more can a man do?"

Offering sympathy for any U.S. president, Truman said some in the audience might aspire to that office, "but they'll be sorry if they get it."

Hoover, wispy-haired and pale, was cheered by the crowd as he concluded his speech with an invocation of God's blessings.

Truman tossed a birthday kiss across the platform to his longtime friend.

Hoover half sat on a padded stool as he spoke. He later stood to accept honorary degrees from the University of Missouri and Washington University of St. Louis.

The former presidents toured the library together, both seeing its interior for the first time. Hoover posed for pictures sitting in the chair and at the desk he used as president. Truman sat beside him.

Hoover showed four of his great-grandchildren pictures of him and fish he caught. One of the children piped up, "Wow!"

In his address, Hoover said Congress did a great public service when it created libraries to house papers of former presidents.

As to his own library, he said: "In these records there are, no doubt, unfavorable remarks made by our political opponents, as well as expressions of appreciation and affection by our friends."

And, the elder statesman added: "We may hope that future students will rely upon our friends."

NATO headquarters described it as one of the alliance's most reliable weapons and said its introduction into the arsenals of NATO nations will considerably strengthen the air defense of Western Europe.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D. Maine, asked Bagwell about speculation that the allotments would have been approved had there been no charges against Estes.

"No sir!" Bagwell replied. "They would not have been approved."

He said there was nothing to suggest that, in Muskie's words, the original cancellation was "the prelude to a whitewash."

Both Muskie and subcommittee Chairman John L. McClellan, D. Ark., made it clear they had no criticism of the Agriculture Department for complying with Ruth-erford's request and holding a review hearing.

Bagwell said that, as an executive department official, he viewed the request as "entirely proper."

Under questioning by Muskie, Bagwell also disputed a theory voiced before the subcommittee that the Agriculture Department's policy changed in January as a result of an unsigned memo favoring approval of Estes' allotments.

The official testified that he had not seen the memo nor heard of its contents at the time he drafted requirements that farmers such as Estes certify the validity of their allotment transfers.

Earlier testimony was to the effect that department official Ernest E. Jacobs, prepared the mysterious memo, Jacobs resigned after testimony before a Texas court of inquiry that he accepted expensive clothing from Estes.

Area Hospital Construction Will Begin Soon

FERRIDAY (Special) — Construction will soon begin on the new 50-bed Hill — Burton hospital for Concordia Parish. A final contract with Robert Thibodeaux and Company of Baton Rouge has been signed by the police jury.

The company has contracted the job for $222,700 and will have 435 working days for completion.

The new hospital will be built at an overall cost of $1,050,000 using matching parish and federal funds. The parish's share was authorized at a special election May 16, which authorized issuance of $550,000 in hospital bonds to be retired in 20 years.

Voters also approved a one-mill levy for the operation and maintenance of the hospital.

The new facility will be located just outside of the town of Ferriday on a ten-acre plot on Panola Plantation which was donated by the estate of Andrew B. Learned, Natchez, Miss., banker and industrialist and his niece, Mrs. Louise Metcalfe Williams, of Chicago, Ill.

Members of the board of hospital commissioners who have worked with members of the police jury on plans and recommendations for the new hospital are O. R. Rhodes, Monterey; W. F. Johnson, Vidalia; C. V. Nichols, Vidalia; Gerald DeLaune, Ferriday and Willard S. Schuch of Frogmore.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, asked Bagwell about speculation that the allotments would have been approved had there been no charges against Estes.

"No siree!" Bagwell replied. "They would not have been approved."

He said there was nothing to suggest that, in Muskie's words, the original cancellation was "the prelude to a whitewash."

Both Muskie and subcommittee Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., made it clear they had no criticism of the Agriculture Department for complying with Rutherford's request and holding a review hearing.

Bagwell said that, as an executive department official, he viewed the request as "entirely proper."

Under questioning by Muskie, Bagwell also disputed a theory voiced before the subcommittee that the Agriculture Department's policy changed in January as a result of an unsigned memo favoring approval of Estes' allotments.

The official testified that he had not seen the memo nor heard of its contents at the time he drafted requirements that farmers such as Estes certify the validity of their allotment transfers.

Earlier testimony was to the effect that department official Emery E. Jacobs, prepared the mysterious memo. Jacobs resigned after testimony before a Texas court of inquiry that he accepted expensive clothing from Estes.

Area Hospital Construction Will Begin Soon

FERRIDAY (Special) — Construction will soon begin on the new 50-bed Hill — Burton hospital for Concordia Parish.

A final contract with Robert Thibodeaux and Company of Baton Rouge has been signed by the police jury.

The company has contracted the job for $822,700 and will have 435 working days for completion.

The new hospital will be built at an overall cost of $1,050,000 using matching parish and federal funds. The parish's share was authorized at a special election May 16, which authorized issuance of $550,000 in hospital bonds to be retired in 20 years.

Voters also approved "a one-mill levy for the operation and maintenance of the hospital."

The new facility will be located just outside of the town of Ferriday on a ten-acre plot on Panola Plantation which was donated by the estate of Andrew B. Learned, Natchez, Miss., banker and industrialist and his niece, Mrs. Louise Metcalf Williams, of Chicago, Ill.

Members of the board of hospital commissioners who have worked with members of the police jury on plans and recommendations for the new hospital are O. R. Rhodes, Monterey; W. F. Johnson, Vidalia; C. V. Nichols, Vidalia; Gerald DeLaune, Ferriday and Willard S. Schuch of Frogtown.

PRESIDENTIAL RACE

2 GOP 'Business Candidates' Loom

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
Some thoughts on the week's news:

If George Romney gets elected governor of Michigan—and some think he might after the big token vote he got in the "popularity prize" contest—Romney will be a strong contender for the 1964 presidential nomination.

New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who looks at this stage like a sure thing for election, achieved his office with-out previous political experience as Romney is trying to do. This week he's been hard at work around the barbecue and country fair circuit, hoping to impress the nation with a bigger majority even than his first one.

These times the national back-haul has a chance to quit ach-ing after one presidential election before another campaign begins.

Kennedy Flies To Maine For Stag Weekend

BRUNSWICK, Maine (UPI)—President Kennedy arrived in Maine late Friday for a stag weekend of relaxation and solitude on a tiny island owned by former boxing great Gene Tunney.

The Chief Executive was offi-cially welcomed by Republican Gov. John H. Reed when his jet plane landed at 6:17 p.m. EDT after a flight from the capital to the Brunswick naval Air Station.

Navy officials had expected that upwards of 60,000 persons would turn out to greet the President, but a steady afternoon rainfall held the number down to an in-famous 6,000.

The Maine visit is the first for Mr. Kennedy since a brief cam-paign stop a day before his elec-tion in November of 1960.

The British are trying to project an image of utmost understanding and objectivity regarding France's obdurate stand against low-tariff trade in European goods to Britain and Europe under the Common Market. The picture of dissatisfied French farmers tying cows and pigs to the windows of govern-ment offices, during demon-stration against conditions as they already are, has not been lost on London.

Richard B. Russell, powerful chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, greeted the ways. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor launched a smooth-sailing reassur-ance that he's not out to make a lot of radical changes as chair-man of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Whether that will end the flurry of European worry over the U.S. military attitude remains to be seen. The revelation will come through relations between the Eu-ropeans and Gen. Lyman L. Lem-nitzer, new North Atlantic Treaty Organization chief.

Ted Husing Dies At Age Of 60

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Sports-caster Ted Husing, one of the golden voices of the golden age of sports, died Friday. He had been bedridden two years in a Pasadena rest home. He was 60.

He came here five years ago to recuperate from brain surgery. Instead, said a friend, "He just seemed to fade away."

He began his radio career in 1923, in the midst of the so-called golden era. He helped make the golden era like Jack Dempsey and Knute Rockne household words par-ticularly handcrafted by its own and, on the way, fashioned a bureau-cracy seems to fall very name as famous as the athletic high-ly on the ears of a public greets whose prowess he de-longed to Washington.

Soviet Again Rejects U.S. Nuclear Plan

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union voiced another nayel Friday, rejecting an American plan for a zonal disarmament inspection by forming it a means of slipping spies into the Soviet Union.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin told the 17-na-tion disarmament conference the Western-backed proposals were a good plan for people seeking mili-tary information for aggressive purposes.

He insisted any plan to split up the Soviet Union into zones for sampling checks by international disarmament teams would give Western intelligence agents an idea of Soviet defense installations by letting them see a good deal of Soviet real estate.

Zorin assailed the proposal after U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean outlined the Western formula contained in America's three-stage disarmament program.

The plan, tailored to meet Soviet opposition to unlimited inspection, calls for territories of the world powers to be cut up into several zones. Details of this are subject to discussion.

International inspection teams would be permitted to enter the first zone during the initial disar-mament stage, but would not be permitted to investigate the remain-ing zones. With progressive im-plementation of disarmament, inspectors could enter the other zones.

The conference will hold its 69th plenary session Tuesday for dis-cussion of the East-West deadlock on a nuclear test ban treaty. The issue was not mentioned in Fri-day's session but sources among the conference's eight-member neutral bloc said they were group-ing forces for another try next week at getting the three nuclear powers to agree on a test ban.

The informants did not indicate what their move would involve but said it would be a concerted effort to make after members of the new central delegations discuss various aspects of a new Western compro-mise proposal with U.S. and British scientists scheduled to arrive here over the weekend.

Zorin turned thumbs down Thursday on the Western com-pro-mise offer, which calls for few-er control posts to detect illegal nuclear blasts and a lesser num-ber of on-site inspections of suspi-cious events on Soviet territory. The proposal was made on condi-tion the Soviets give prior com-mitment to the principle of on-site inspections by international teams.

Zorin said that, too, was just an other Western attempt to sneak spies into the Soviet Union.

7 Arrested In Orleans Club Raids

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Acting Dist. Atty. Frank Klein vowed Friday to continue nightly check-ings of French Quarter and Canal Street night spots after a raid netted seven arrests at bars that failed to heed his "light up or close-up" ultimatum.

Klein, leading his office's anti-vice crusade while Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison serves two weeks in the Army, said Thursday night's raids were carried out when bar operators failed to obey the 24-hour ultimatum.

The arrests hit six clubs along Bourbon Street and one on Canal Street. The persons arrested were booked with operating an inade-quately lighted alcohol beverage outlet.

Clubs hit included the French Casino on Canal Street and these Bourbon Street establishments: The Old French Opera House, the Gays and Dolls, Club Sulfura, Frieda's, Parisienne, Madame Francone's and the Gaudin Den.

Klein said "this will serve as evidence of the fact that we in-tend to enforce the law on light-ing to the extent of making ar-rests."

"We are going to continue checking places tomorrow night, the night after and every night. At the same time we are check-ing strip joints we'll be looking for law violators and police char-acters. Through it, the entire French Quarter."

Klein said he regarded the law requiring adequate lighting as a major weapon in the district at-torney's office's fight against B drinking, lewd and obscene per-formances and use and sale of narcotics.

Meanwhile, a City Council pub-lic hearing was scheduled for Sept. 12 on Council President James E. Fitzmorris' ordinance to require police fingerprinting of all employees of clubs that offer live entertainment. The ordinance would require a police identifica-tion card and a roster of em-ployees.

NEW YORK DISASTER

Six In Family Die As Plane Crashes

WHITNEY POINT, N.Y. (UPI)—A family of six was killed Fri-day when a single engine plane crashed on a hilltop three miles south of here after encountering bad weather.

State police identified the vic-tims as Army Sgt. George Van Housen, 31, of Ft. Knox, Ky., his wife, Mary Lou, 29, and their four children: George Jr., 10, Patricia, 8, Jeffrey, 2, and An-drew, 6.

The plane, piloted by Van Hou-sen, left Norwich N.Y. airport at 10:50 a.m. bound for Zanesville, Ohio.

Broomer County Airport at Bing-hamton, N.Y., said Van Housen radioed shortly after takeoff that he was running into low ceiling, rain and fog. He indicated that he would reverse course and at-tempt to return to Norwich. At that point contact was lost.

A state police search for the plane was started in the area.

The plane was a Navion, owned by a Ft. Knox flying club, ac-cording to Norwich Airport spokes-men.

The scene of the crash was Whitney Point Hill near the Penn-sylvania state line. Wreckage was scattered over a 450-yard area. State police found one body about 130 feet from the point of impact. There was a rag doll lying near the demolished craft.

Van Housen and his family had been visiting his parents at Mor-ris, N.Y., while he was on leave from Ft. Knox. They intended to return to Fort Knox via Zanes-ville.

Police Nab Pair In Bank Holdup

CLARKSDALE, Miss. (AP)—Two young men robbed the Jones-town branch of the Coahoma County Bank and Trust Co. of $16,595 Friday and fled to the county line only to be caught by police.

The bandits fired one shot at the bank but no one was injured as the bullet bounced harmlessly into the lap of a bookkeeper.

Police said Alva Doyle Mullen, 31, and Thomas C. Jurkiewicz, 23, both of Chicago were identified by bank personnel as the pair.

Bank manager W. A. Hughes said the pair strolled into the bank and one reached into a shopping bag and pulled out a gun, thrust-ing it toward a teller.

Hughes said one of the gunmen said "This is a stickup. Fill it up," in reference to the shopping bag.

Hughes said one of the bandits pointed his gun into the cage and the gun went off. The gun-man might have been nervous, Hughes said, because the other robber said "why did you do that?"

Hughes said after the shot the robbers ran behind the tellers cage and piled the money into the sack then fled out the back door.

A bookkeeper, Mrs. J. A. Gil-bert, found the bullet in her lap after the bank personnel regained their composure.

Police immediately gave chase and Clarksdale Police Chief Ben Collins and deputy sheriff Calvin Weeks caught sight of the pair and chased them to the county line before catching them.

Officers said neither the money nor pistols were recovered, how-ever, some $800 was found on the bandits.

Police said Mullen and Jurkiewicz would be charged with fed-eral bank robbery charges. Mullen was reportedly formerly of Dub-lin, Miss.

2 GOP 'Business Candidates' Loom

Kennedy Flies To Maine For Stag Weekend

BRUNSWICK, Maine (UPI)—President Kennedy arrived in Maine late Friday for a stag weekend of relaxation and solitude on a tiny island owned by former boxing great Gene Tunney.

The Chief Executive was officially welcomed by Republican Gov. John H. Reed when his jet plane landed at 6:17 p.m. EDT after a flight from the capital to the Brunswick naval Air Station.

Navy officials had expected that upwards of 60,000 persons would turn out to greet the President, but a steady afternoon rainfall held the number down to an official figure of 6,000.

The Maine visit is the first for Mr. Kennedy since a brief campaign stop a day before his election in November of 1960.

Ted Husing Dies At Age Of 60

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Sports-caster Ted Husing, one of the golden voices of the golden age of sports, died Friday. He had been bedridden two years in a Pasadena rest home. He was 60.

He came here five years ago to recuperate from brain surgery. Instead, said a friend, "He just seemed to fade away."

He began his radio career in 1923, in the midst of the so-called golden era. He helped make names like Jack Dempsey and Knute Rockne household words and, on the way, fashioned a name as famous as the athletic greats whose prowess he described.

Soviet Again Rejects U.S. Nuclear Plan

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union voiced another nyet Friday, rejecting an American plan for zonal disarmament inspection by terming it a means of slipping spies into the Soviet Union.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin told the 17-nation disarmament conference the Western-backed proposals were a good plan for people seeking military information for aggressive purposes.

He insisted any plan to split up the Soviet Union into zones for sampling checks by international disarmament teams would give Western intelligence agents an idea of Soviet defense installations by letting them see a good deal of Soviet real estate.

Zorin assailed the proposal after U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean outlined the Western formula contained in America's three-stage disarmament program.

The plan, tailored to meet Soviet opposition to unlimited inspection, calls for territories of the world powers to be cut up into several zones. Details of this are subject to discussion.

International inspection teams would be permitted to enter the first zone during the initial disarmament stage, but would not be permitted to investigate the remaining zones. With progressive implementation of disarmament, inspectors could enter the other zones.

The conference will hold its 69th plenary session Tuesday for discussion of the East-West deadlock on a nuclear test ban treaty. The issue was not mentioned in Friday's session but sources among the conference's eight-member neutral bloc said they were grouping forces for another try next week at getting the three nuclear powers to agree on a test ban.

The informants did not indicate what their move would involve but said it would be a concerted effort made after members of the neutral delegations discuss various aspects of a new Western compromise proposal with U.S. and British scientists scheduled to arrive here over the weekend.

Zorin turned thumbs down Thursday on the Western compromise offer, which calls for fewer control posts to detect illegal nuclear blasts and a lesser number of on-site inspections of suspicious events on Soviet territory. The proposal was made on condition the Soviets give prior commitment to the principle of on-site inspections by international teams.

Zorin said that, too, was just another Western attempt to sneak spies into the Soviet Union.

7 Arrested In Orleans Club Raids

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Acting Dist. Atty. Frank Klein vowed Friday to continue nightly checks of French Quarter and Canal Street night spots after a raid netted seven arrests at bars that failed to heed his "light up or closeup" ultimatum.

Klein, leading his office's anti-crime crusade while Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison serves two weeks in the Army, said Thursday night's raids were carried out when bar operators failed to obey the 24-hour ultimatum.

The arrests hit six clubs along Bourbon Street and one on Canal Street. The persons arrested were booked with operating an inadequate lighted alcohol beverage outlet.

Clubs hit included the French Casino on Canal Street, and the Bourbon Street establishments: The Old French Opera House, the Guys and Dolls, Club Sultana, Frieda's Parisienne, Ma Dame Francine's and the Gunda Den.

Klein said "this will serve as evidence of the fact that we intend to enforce the law on lighting to the extent of making arrests."

"We are going to continue checking places tomorrow night, the night after and every night. At the same time we are checking strip joints we'll be looking for law violators and police characters through the entire French Quarter."

Klein said he regarded the law requiring adequate lighting as a major weapon in the district attorney's office's fight against B-drinking, lewd and obscene performances and use and sale of narcotics.

Meanwhile, a City Council public hearing was scheduled for Sept. 12 on Council President James E. Fitzmorris' ordinance to require police fingerprinting of all employees of clubs that offer live entertainment. The ordinance would require a police identification card and a roster of employees.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Smith, daughter M'Lou and son, Buddy, of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Pete Shields of Oak Grove; Mrs. Eva Holcomb of Gilbert; Mrs. Henry Rogilio of Monroe; and Janice Rogilio; Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Rogilio and sons, Henry and Gary of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Rials of Wisner; Tommy Ray Lynch of Winnsboro; and the host and hostess of the occasion, Annie and Mack Rogilio of Winnsboro.

Boating, fishing, swimming and a steak broil and barbecue were much enjoyed by all.

Report Issued On Polio Cases

ATLANTA (UPI)—The U.S. Communicable Disease Center said Friday 31 cases of polio were reported throughout the nation during the week ending Aug. 4.

Ten were in Texas and five in Illinois. The remaining 16 cases were reported by 11 states, none of which reported more than two.

NEW YORK DISASTER

Six In Family Die As Plane Crashes

WHITNEY POINT, N.Y. (UPI)—A family of six was killed Friday when a single engine plane crashed on a hilltop three miles south of here after encountering bad weather.

State police identified the victims as Army Sgt. George Van Housen, 31, of Ft. Knox, Ky.; his wife, Mary Lou, 29, and their four children: George Jr., 10; Patricia, 8; Jeffrey, 2, and Andrew, 6.

The plane, piloted by Van Housen, left Norwich, N.Y. airport at 10:50 a.m. bound for Zanesville, Ohio.

Broome County Airport at Binghamton, N.Y., said Van Housen radioed shortly after takeoff that he was running into low ceiling, rain and fog. He indicated that he would reverse course and attempt to return to Norwich. At that point contact was lost.

A state police search for the plane was started in the area when a woman called, saying that she thought a plane was in trouble.

The plane was a Navion, owned by a Ft. Knox flying club, according to Norwich Airport spokesmen.

The scene of the crash was Whitney Point Hill, near the Pennsylvania state line. Wreckage was scattered over a 450-yard area. State police found one body about 130 feet from the point of impact. There was a rag doll lying near the demolished craft.

Van Housen and his family had been visiting his parents at Morris, N.Y., while he was on leave from Ft. Knox. They intended to return to Fort Knox via Zanesville.

Police said Mullen and Jurkiewicz would be charged with federal bank robbery charges. Mullen was reportedly formerly of Dublin, Miss.

Police Nab Pair In Bank Holdup

CLARKSDALE, Miss. (AP)—Two young men robbed the Jones-town branch of the Coahoma County Bank and Trust Co. of $16,595 Friday and fled to the county line only to be caught by police.

The bandits fired one shot at the bank but no one was injured as the bullet bounced harmlessly into the lap of a bookkeeper.

Police said Alva Doyle Mullen, 31, and Thomas C. Jurkiewicz, 23, both of Chicago were identified by bank personnel as the pair.

Bank manager W. A. Hughes said the pair strolled into the bank and one reached into a shopping bag and pulled out a gun, thrusting it toward a teller.

Hughes said one of the gunmen said "This is a stickup. Fill it up," in reference to the shopping bag.

Hughes said one of the bandits pointed his gun into the cage and the gun went off. The gunman might have been nervous, Hughes said, because the other robber said "why did you do that."

Hughes said after the shot the robbers ran behind the tellers cage and piled the money into the sack then fled out the back door.

A bookkeeper, Mrs. J. A. Gilbert, found the bullet in her lap after the bank personnel regained their composure.

Police immediately gave chase and Clarkdale Police Chief Ben Collins and deputy sheriff Calvin Weeks caught sight of the pair and chased them to the county line before catching them.

Officers said neither the money nor pistols were recovered, however, some $800 was found on the bandits.

Police said Mullen and Jurkiewicz would be charged with federal bank robbery charges. Mullen was reportedly formerly of Dublin, Miss.

The pair were nabbed about 14 miles southwest of here. Police said the arrest took place about 20 minutes after the robbery.
